

Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
Introduction	ix
PART I
Writing History	1
1 Theory of History	3
Calling for Plot 5
Platonic History 8
Ut pictura historia 12
Verisimilitude 15
True Falseness 18
2 Historical Prose	33
A General History 35
The Historian's Toolbox 39
Alternative Histories 44
The True History 46
PART II
Poeticising History	63
3 Theory of Poetry	65
Weaving a Story 68
Benefits of History 76
Writing Christian Deeds 82
4 Historical Poetry	95
A Historical Master 96
Popular Historiography? 99

vi Contents

Poetry as Counterhistory 107

The Voice of History 112

Destabilising Dream 115

PART III

Staging History

125

5 Theory of Drama

127

Cathartic History 131

Tragicomedy Takes the Stage 136

Theatrum Historiae 140

6 Historical Drama

157

Dramaturge of History 160

History-Errant 164

History as Divine Pageant 170

The Historian's Hand 174

Doublespeak 176

Conclusions

188

Bibliography

199

Index

211