JOURNALISM IN THE DATA AGE

JINGRONG TONG

SAGE

Los Angeles | London | New Delhi
Singapore | Washington DC | Melbourne

CONTENTS

List of Figures and Tables ix
List of Boxes xi
About the Author xiii
Acknowledgements xiv
Dedication xvi

1 Introduction 1

2 The communication environment in the data age 3

Digital technologies and the Information Technology Revolution (ITR) 4
Five features of the communication environment in the data age 6
Are digital technologies 'disruptive technologies'? 15
Summary of the chapter 19
End of chapter exercise 20
Further reading 20

3 The crises of quality journalism 21

The financial crisis of journalism 22
Going online and the business model experimentation of the news media 25
Why has advertising migrated to the Internet? 29
Job cuts and the closures of newsrooms 32
The decline of quality reporting 33
Summary of the chapter 37
End of chapter exercise 37
Further reading 38

4 Online journalism 39

The rise and development of online journalism 40
New skills, practices and jobs 52
Key debates about online journalism 54

Summary of the chapter 58
End of chapter exercise 58
Further reading 58

5 Data journalism 59

What is data journalism? 60
A brief history of data journalism 66
The development of data journalism today 69
What do data-based news stories look like today? 77
Challenges for data journalism 80
Key academic debates about data journalism 82
Summary of the chapter 86
End of chapter exercise 87
Further reading 87

6 Algorithms, automation and journalism 89

What is an algorithm? 90
Three ways in which algorithms have influenced journalism 91
The implications of using algorithms for journalism 96
Summary of the chapter 103
End of chapter exercise 103
Further reading 103

7 Entrepreneurial journalism 105

What is entrepreneurial journalism? 106
Why entrepreneurial journalism? 107
Is it still journalism? 112
Concerns and issues surrounding entrepreneurial journalism 113
Summary of the chapter 116
End of chapter exercise 116
Further reading 116

8 Understanding the audience 117

Why study audiences? 118
What is the audience? 119
Journalism and audiences 126
Summary of the chapter 132
End of chapter exercise 132
Further reading 133

9 Journalistic autonomy 135

What is journalistic autonomy? 136
The influence of digital technologies on autonomy in journalistic practice 138
Media (self-)regulation and government interference in democratic contexts 140
Tightening media control in authoritarian regimes or regimes in transition 148
Summary of the chapter 152
End of chapter exercise 153
Further reading 153

10 Journalistic legitimacy 155

Journalism as a 'profession' 156
Achieving and maintaining legitimacy 156
Journalistic legitimacy in crisis 157
The attempts of news organisations and journalists to retain and revive journalistic legitimacy 163
Summary of this chapter 166
End of chapter exercise 167
Further reading 167

11 Conclusion 169

References 173
Index 211

LIST OF BOXES

Box 2.1	'Information society' and 'network society'	5
Box 2.2	The binary number system	6
Box 2.3	Technological, corporate and media convergence	7
Box 2.4	Vertical and horizontal communication	9
Box 2.5	The Drudge Report and the Clinton-Lewinsky scandal	10
Box 2.6	The case of Sun Zhigang	10
Box 2.7	WikiLeaks: Iraq and Afghanistan war logs	11
Box 2.8	Ephemerality	12
Box 2.9	Digital transformation and the convergence of newsrooms	17
Box 3.1	The business models of The Guardian	27
Box 3.2	weReport and Taiwan FactCheck Center	28
Box 3.3	ProPublica	28
Box 3.4	The disappearance of investigative journalism	34
Box 3.5	'Aggregation, content farms and Huffinization'	35
Box 4.1	Using drones in journalism	43
Box 4.2	Using VR for journalism	43
Box 4.3	Transparency and journalistic legitimacy and authority	49
Box 4.4	Hypertexuality, hypertext and non-linear reading	49
Box 4.5	Podcasting	50
Box 5.1	The Panama Papers	62
Box 5.2	The Tianjin Explosion	62
Box 5.3	NICAR	68
Box 5.4	Open government initiatives and data portals in the world	69
Box 5.5	The case of local data journalism in the UK	74
Box 5.6	Three types of organisations that are important for data journalism: non-profit, independent or non-government	76