

Contents

I. OVERTURE	1
1. The American Monomyth in a New Century	3
The Classical Monomyth	5
Technomythic Development	8
The Werther Effect	9
II. COMPOSING THE MYTHIC SCORE	19
2. The Birth of a National Monomyth	21
The Myth of Eden in the American Imagination	22
The Intruding, Evil Other	26
The Axial Decade of Monomythic Development	36
Crowds of Superheroes	43
The Shape of the New Heroic Paradigm	47
3. Buffalo Bill: Staging World Redemption	49
An Instinct for Myth-Making Publicity	50
Blending History and Myth	54
Teddy Roosevelt and Manifest Destiny	58
Carrington	59

4. Heidi Visits a Little House on the Prairie	65
Heroines in the Protestant Tradition	67
Heidi Comes to America	72
Television's Pa Ingalls as the Heidi Man	75
The Retreat from Realism and the Ascent of Angels	77
Touched by an Angel	80
Life without Heidi	83
III. DANCING THE MYTH OF REDEMPTION	87
5. John Wayne and Friends Redeem the Village	89
Training for Manhood	91
Villages under Siege	93
The Shootist's Disciple with a Gun	95
Tennessee Moonshine, Gambling, and Whores	100
6. Cleansing Perilous Cities with Golden Violence	106
Death Wish Times Five	107
Death Wish as "Regeneration Through Violence"	111
Making the Death Wish Scenario Credible	113
The Reassurances of the Death Wish Myth	116
The Call to Discipleship in Death Wish	117
Bernard Goetz as Old West Disciple	118
Cleansing the Urban School with Joe Clark	120
7. Superheroic Presidents Redeem the Nation	126
The American Presidency and the Monomyth	128
George Washington as Selfless Savior	129
Abraham Lincoln as Legitimate Law Breaker	131
The Emergence of the Superheroic Presidency in the Axial Decade	132
A Hearst-Roosevelt Collaboration	133
Monomythic Expansion in The Young Mr. Lincoln	138
The President as Action-Adventure Hero	142

Independence Day	144
Air Force One	146
Youthful Voters and the Mythic Presidency	148
8. Lethal Patriots Break the Rhythm	151
Men without Women	154
The Crusade against Government in the Rambo Films	157
The Unforgiven Redeemer	159
Lethal Broadsword, Lethal Hatchet	162
Saving Democracy with Bombs	167
The Unabomber's Crusade for the "Freedom Club"	171
Fueling the Myth with Ammonium Nitrate	174
IV. HYMNS AND CREEDS OF THE AMERICAN MONOMYTH	177
9. Cheerful Saints and Melodious Lions	179
The Code of Sanitation in Disney's Land	181
Disney's Creation of a Super Mouse	185
Mary Poppins' Heidi Touch	187
Disney's Beautification of Violence	188
The Moralization of Nature and War	189
The Cultural Supremacy of Walt Disney	192
The Restoration of Beastly Dynasty	193
Other Disney Kingdoms	196
Disney as Democratic Educator?	197
10. The Sound of One Hand Killing: Monomythic Video Games	199
The Emergence of a Games Technology	199
The Columbine Questions	201
The Digital Transformation of the Toy World	205
Playing to Save All Mankind	206
Gunslinging with a Joystick	212

	Monomythic Video Games	217
	Computers and Democratic Hope	221
11.	Star Trek's Humanistic Militarism	224
	The Message of The Original Series	228
	Star Trek's American Mission in The Original Series	229
	Star Trek's Antimythic Bias and Its Own Mythic Ingredients	233
	“Who Mourns for Adonais?”	234
	The Mythic Call of Sexual Renunciation	237
	Redemption	242
	The Foreshortened Democracy of Star Trek	244
12.	Star Trek Faith as a Fan-Made Religion	247
	Kirk as the Serpent in the Garden with “The Apple”	249
	The Ecstatic Trekkie Phase of Spiritual Formation	251
	Star Trek as the Private Redemption of Trekkers	253
	The Creation of a Fan-Made Religion	256
	The Significance of Dress Up and Play	258
	Star Trek's Corporate Version of Pilgrimage	260
	Moving Past “Poaching”	264
13.	Fascist Faith in the Star Wars Universe	265
	“Who Will Save Your Soul?”	265
	The Religious Aspirations of George Lucas	269
	Luke Skywalker and Darth Vader as Monomythic Heroes	270
	The Political Symbolisms of Star Wars	272
	Fascism, Star Wars's Spiritual Cousin	274
	Star Wars's Fascism and Pop Religion	279
14.	Monomythic Credotainment	283
	Credotainment Culture	285
	Smash-Face Buddhism: The “Ballistic Mystic”	290
	Superheroic Bullet Time in The Matrix	295

Touched by . . . Whatever You Need	300
Credotainment and Redemptive Expectations	303
V. CADENZA: SEARCHING FOR DEMOCRATIC MELODIES	307
15. The Discordant Music of Catastrophes	309
Nature as Ferocious Moralist	312
Cues for Impending Punishment	316
Moralistic Jaws	317
Brody as a Neurotic Spiderman	319
The Redemptive Function of Women’s Blood	322
Tertullian Ecstasy	324
Disaster Politics in Armageddon and Left Behind	326
Preventing the End Times in Armageddon	326
The End Times for All Politics in Left Behind	328
Karl Kraus and the Acoustics of Disaster	333
16. Deceptive Fugues, Democratic Dances	338
“Rambo Goes to Washington”	340
The Premise of a Spectator Democracy	346
Help Wanted: Democratic Dancers	350
The Straight Story	353
Dead Man Walking	354
Concessions to the Monomyth	357
Censorship or . . . ???	360
September 11 and Democratic Heroism	362
A Comment on Sources	365
Endnotes	367
Afterword	400
Index	402