

Contents

Foreword	IX
Preface and Acknowledgements	XI
1. Introduction	1
2. The Stylistic Features of Sutra Prose and What They Reveal About the Composition and Transmission of these Texts	9
3. References within Canonical Texts to Texts being Memorized and Recited Communally	21
4. The Formation of Sutra and Verse Collections, and the saṃgītikāras and bhāṇakas	27
5. The Main Differences Between Parallel Versions of Early Buddhist Texts and Accounting for these Differences
5.1. Introduction	47
5.2. Change of Language	52
5.3. Modification of the Wording	59
5.4. Rearranging Sutra and Verse Collections and Creating new Sutras and Verses	105
6. Recent Scholarship on the Composition of early Buddhist Texts, and Initiating and Adapting to Change	109
Abbreviations	123
References	125