

Contents

List of Illustrations	page vii
Notes on Contributors	viii
Acknowledgments	xii
Chronology	xiv
Preface	xix
Introduction: Expecting More: African American Literature in Transition, 1920–1930	I
Miriam Thaggert and Rachel Farebrother
PART I HABITUS, SOUND, FASHION
1 New Negro Literary Décor: Competing Tastes in the 1920s	19
Cherene Sherrard-Johnson
2 The New Negro Movement's Recording Imaginary	46
Sonnet Retman
3 Sartorial Self-Fashioning in the Harlem Renaissance	73
Kimberly Lamm
PART II SPACE: CHRONICLES OF HARLEM AND BEYOND
4 Going Dutch: From Renaissance Haarlem to the Harlem Renaissance	109
Michael Soto
5 The Unmaking of the New Negro Mecca	130
Shannon King

6	Subversions of Boasian Anthropology in Zora Neale Hurston's Great Migration Fiction and Ethnography M. Genevieve West	154
7	W. E. B. Du Bois and the Fluid Subject: Dark Princess and the Splendid Transnational in the Harlem Renaissance Inés Valdez	177
PART III UPLIFT RENEWED: RELIGION, PROTEST, AND EDUCATION
8	"The sinful babel of the airshaft": Rudolph Fisher's Fiction and Religion, Urban Space, and Modernity in the Harlem Renaissance Rachel Farebrother	205
9	Marcus Garvey: Popular Culture and Black Liberation Heather D. Russell	232
10	Progression or Regression of the Black Race? Historically Black Colleges and Racial Uplift in Nella Larsen's Quicksand Angela Watkins	258
PART IV SERIAL READING: MAGAZINES AND PERIODICAL CULTURE
11	The Midnight Motion Picture Company Goes to Europe: The Harlem Renaissance and Global White Supremacy Adam McKible	287
12	African American Magazine Modernism John K. Young	310
	Bibliography	335
	Index	361