

Table of Contents

Acknowledgments	7
Introduction	9
Andreas Eder-Ramsauer, Seongcheol Kim, Andy Knott & Marina Prentoulis
The Digital Party and the Case of Podemos: Flash in the Pan or Inescapable Destiny?	20
Lluís de Nadal
Populism, Radical Democracy, and Political Organisation: Movement Parties and People’s Parties of a New Type	38
Seongcheol Kim
From Austerity to Brexit: The Failed Populist Moment	55
Marina Prentoulis
“It’s All a Matter of Image!”: Aesthetics and Radical Democracy in the Yellow Vests Movement, or in Praise of Eugênio Bucci	71
Thomás Zicman de Barros
Protest Movements’ Momentum under Strain: The Inescapable Tension between “the People” and Identity Construction in the Gilets Jaunes Protests	86
Céline Righi
Populist Visual and Political Representation in France: A Study of the Presidential Campaign Posters of the National Rally and France Unbowed	109
Morgane Belhadi
Between Movements and the Party: Corbynism and the Limits of Left-Wing Populism in the UK	130
Hector Ríos-Jara

Populism in Suspension: Syriza’s Shifting Discourse in Government, 2015–2019	150
Florian Skelton
The People Against its Others: Brazilian Populists, Indigenous Peoples and the Experience of Resistance	168
Étienne Levac, Marwan Attalah & Willames Sousa Borari
“How to Keep Proper Distance from Anti-Lockdown Protesters?” Pandemic Challenges for Berlin’s Counter-Protests Against the Far Right	187
Marieluise Mühe
List of Contributors	201