TABLE OF CONTENTS

	page
Preface	i
About ICAME	iii
Jan Aarts and Nelleke Oostdijk Corpus-related Research at Nijmegen University	1
Karin Aijmer "Now May We Have a Word on This": The Use of Now As a Discourse Particle	15
Eric Akkerman, Willem Meijs, and Hetty Voogt-van Zutphen ASCOT: A Computerized Lexicon with an Associated Scanning System	35
John Algeo A Computer Corpus for a Dictionary of Briticisms	45
Eric Steven Atwell Transforming a Parsed Corpus into a Corpus Parser	61
Nancy Belmore The Use of Tagged Corpora in Defining Informationally Relevant Word Classes	71
Douglas Biber and Edward Finegan Drift in Three English Genres from the 18th to the 20th Centuries: A Multidimensional Approach	83
Peter Collins and Pamela Peters The Australian Corpus Project	103
Pieter de Haan A Corpus Investigation into the Behaviour of Prepositional Verbs	121

Ossi Ihalainen 137
Working with Dialectal Material Stored in a dBase File

Geoffrey Kaye 145
The Design of the Database for the Survey of English Usage

Merja Kytö and Matti Rissanen 169
The Helsinki Corpus of English Texts: Classifying and Coding the Diachronic Part

Willem Meijs 181
All But and If Not in Brown and LOB

Antoinette Renouf 197
Coding Metalanguage: Issues Raised in the Creation and Processing of Specialised Corpora

Geoffrey Sampson and Robin Haigh 207
Why Are Long Sentences Longer than Short Ones?

Anna-Brita Stenström 221
Adverbial Commas and Prosodic Segmentation

Lita Taylor and Gerry Knowles 237
Progress Report on the Spoken English Corpus

Gunnel Tottie 245
No-Negation and Not-Negation in Spoken and Written English

Wolfgang Viereck 267
The Data of the "Survey of English Dialects"
Computerized - Problems and Applications

Piek Vossen, Marianne den Broeder, and Willem Meijs 279
The "LINKS"-project: Building a Semantic Database for Linguistic Applications