three 25 JANUARY 1978

General features of apparatuses of security (III). ~ Normation (normation) and normalization. ~ The example of the epidemic (smallpox) and inoculation campaigns in the eighteenth century. ~ The emergence of new notions: case, risk, danger, and crisis. ~ The forms of normalization in discipline and in mechanisms of security. ~ Deployment of a new political technology: the government of populations. ~ The problem of population in the mercantilists and the physiocrats. ~ The population as operator (operateur) of transformations in domains of knowledge: from the analysis of wealth to political economy, from natural history to biology, from general grammar to historical philology.

four 1 FEBRUARY 1978

The problem of "government" in the sixteenth century.  $\sim$  Multiplicity of practices of government (government of self, government of souls, government of children, etcetera).  $\sim$  The specific problem of the government of the state.  $\sim$  The point of repulsion of the literature on government: Machiavelli's The Prince.  $\sim$  Brief history of the reception of The Prince until the nineteenth century.  $\sim$  The art of government distinct from the Prince's simple artfulness.  $\sim$  Example of this new art of government: Guillaume de la Perrière Le Miroir politique (1555).  $\sim$  A government that finds its end in the "things" to be directed.  $\sim$  Decline of law to the advantage of a variety of tactics.  $\sim$  The historical and institutional obstacles to the implementation of this art of government until the eighteenth century.  $\sim$  The problem of population an essential factor in unblocking the art of government.  $\sim$  The triangle formed by government, population, and political economy.  $\sim$  Questions of method: the project of a history of "governmentality." Overvaluation of the problem of the state.

five 8 FEBRUARY 1978

Why study governmentality?  $\sim$  The problem of the state and population.  $\sim$  Reminder of the general project: triple displacement of the analysis in relation to (a) the institution, (b) the function, and (c) the object. ~ The stake of this year's lectures. ~ Elements for a history of "government." Its semantic field from the thirteenth to the sixteenth century. ~ The idea of the government of men. Its sources: (A) The organization of a pastoral power in the pre-Christian and Christian East. (B) Spiritual direction (direction de conscience). ~ First outline of the pastorate. Its specific features: (a) it is exercised over a multiplicity on the move; (b) it is a fundamentally beneficent power with salvation of the flock as its objective; (c) it is a power which individualizes. Omnes et singulatim. The paradox of the shepherd (berger). ~ The institutionalization of the pastorate by the Christian Church.

Analysis of the pastorate (continuation).  $\sim$  The problem of the shepherd-flock relationship in Greek literature and thought: Homer, the Pythagorean tradition. Rareness of the shepherd metaphor in classical political literature (Isocrates, Demosthenes).  $\sim$  A major exception: Plato's The Statesman. The use of the metaphor in other Plato texts (Critias, Laws, The Republic). The critique of the idea of a magistrate-shepherd in The Statesman. The pastoral metaphor applied to the doctor, farmer, gymnast, and teacher.  $\sim$  The history of the pastorate in the West, as a model of the government of men, is inseparable from Christianity. Its transformations and crises up to the eighteenth century. Need for a history of the pastorate.  $\sim$ Characteristics of the "government of souls": encompassing power coextensive with the organization of the Church and distinct from political power. ~ The problem of the relationships between political power and pastoral power in the West. Comparison with the Russian tradition.

Analysis of the pastorate (end).  $\sim$  Specificity of the Christian pastorate in comparison with Eastern and Hebraic traditions.  $\sim$  An art of governing men. Its role in the history of the third to the sixth century (Saint John Chrysostom. Saint Cyprian, Saint Ambrose, Gregory the Great, Cassian, Saint Benedict): (1) the relationship to salvation. An economy of merits and faults: (a) the principle of analytical responsibility; (b) the principle of exhaustive and instantaneous transfer; (c) the principle of sacrificial reversal; (d) the principle of alternate correspondence. (2) The relationship to the law: institution of a relationship of complete subordination of the sheep to the person who directs them. An individual and non-finalized relationship. Difference between Greek and Christian apatheia. (3) The relationship to the truth: the production of hidden truths. Pastoral teaching and spiritual direction. ~ Conclusion: an absolutely new form of power that marks the appearance of specific modes of individualization. Its decisive importance for the history of the subject.

eight 1 MARCH 1978

The notion of "conduct." ~ The crisis of the pastorate. ~ Revolts of conduct in the field of the pastorate. ~ The shift of forms of resistance to the borders of political institutions in the modern age: examples of the army, secret societies, and medicine. ~ Problem of vocabulary: "Revolts of conduct," "insubordination (insoumission)," "dissidence," and "counter-conduct." Pastoral counter-conducts. Historical reminder: (a) asceticism; (b) communities; (c) mysticism; (d) Scripture; (e) eschatological beliefs. ~ Conclusion: what is at stake in the reference to the notion of "pastoral power" for an analysis of the modes of exercise of power in general.
