

CONTENTS

| | |
|--|----|
| Preface | 5 |
| 1 Introduction | 11 |
| 1.1 Does style exist? | 11 |
| 1.2 Style as a notational term. Style as departure, addition, and connotation | 14 |
| 1.3 Types of linguistic variation | 16 |
| 1.4 Overlap of stylistics and other branches of linguistics | 17 |
| 1.5 Style, genre, function | 20 |
| 1.6 Style as comparison and prediction | 21 |
| 1.7 Summary | 25 |
| 2 Style and literary study | 27 |
| 2.1 Relations between linguistics, stylistics and literary study | 27 |
| 2.2 Close reading. Vossler, Croce, Spitzer | 28 |
| 2.3 Russian formalism | 29 |
| 2.4 Literary structuralism | 31 |
| 2.5 Linguistic versus literary context | 33 |
| 2.6 Summary | 34 |
| 3 Style, langue and parole , competence and performance | 36 |
| 3.1 Stylistic variation in linguistic theory | 36 |
| 3.2 Saussure: langue , parole | 36 |
| 3.3 Chomsky: competence , performance | 42 |

| | | |
|------|--|-----|
| 3.4 | Ways of describing styles within grammar | 46 |
| 3.5 | Choice of delicacy levels | 49 |
| 3.6 | Stylistic rules | 50 |
| 4 | Context parameters | 51 |
| 4.1 | Need for context classification | 51 |
| 4.2 | Relationships of context and language | 52 |
| 4.3 | Approaches to, and taxonomies of, context | 54 |
| 4.4 | Linguistic division of text into portions | 62 |
| 4.5 | Group contexts. Slang | 64 |
| 4.6 | Dynamism in contextual categorization | 65 |
| 5 | Grammatical models in the description of style markers | 67 |
| 5.1 | Style as a differential | 67 |
| 5.2 | Requirements for grammatical models | 68 |
| 5.3 | Style in some grammatical models | 71 |
| 5.4 | Transformational grammar in stylistics | 79 |
| 5.5 | Systemic grammar in stylistics | 81 |
| 5.6 | From linguistic feature to grammatical model. Words, rhetorical figures | 82 |
| 5.7 | Styles across languages | 86 |
| 5.8 | Style and rhetoric. Allegory, irony, parody | 87 |
| 5.9 | Textual complexity and readability | 89 |
| 5.10 | Stylistics and content analysis | 90 |
| 5.11 | From stylolinguistics to literary analysis | 91 |
| 5.12 | Summary | 96 |
| 6 | Deviance | 98 |
| 6.1 | Deviance | 98 |
| 6.2 | Grammaticality, acceptability, tolerance | 98 |
| 6.3 | Transformationalist and behaviourist views of well-formedness | 101 |
| 6.4 | Grammaticality scales | 103 |
| 6.5 | Strategies in the description of deviant texts | 104 |
| 6.6 | Closed texts, open texts, and choices of grammatical models | 106 |

| | | |
|------|---|-----|
| 6.7 | Generative-transformational methods in the comparison of language variants | 107 |
| 6.8 | Psycholinguistic approaches to deviance | 108 |
| 7 | Linguistic style markers beyond the sentence | 110 |
| 7.1 | Style as a quality of texts | 110 |
| 7.2 | Textual well-formedness, textual acceptability, textual tolerance | 112 |
| 7.3 | Textual deviance as a style marker | 114 |
| 7.4 | Theme and rheme. Theme dynamics. Cohesion devices | 115 |
| 8 | Stylostatistics | 127 |
| 8.1 | Role of statistics in stylistics | 127 |
| 8.2 | Some early stylostatisticians. Zipf and Yule | 128 |
| 8.3 | Guiraud. Theme words and key words. Josephine Miles | 132 |
| 8.4 | Approaches and stylostatistical characteristics . . | 133 |
| 8.5 | Sample and norm | 135 |
| 8.6 | Attribution studies | 136 |
| 8.7 | Summary | 140 |
| 8.8 | The role of the computer | 140 |
| 8.9 | Perspectives | 143 |
| 9 | Conclusion and Summary | 145 |
| 10 | Bibliography | 149 |
| 10.1 | Stylistic bibliographies | 149 |
| 10.2 | Books and articles | 150 |
| 11 | Index to references | 177 |