

Table of Contents

Preface		vii
Introduction	The Crisis of Autonomy	3
Chapter One	The Positivist Foundation of Freud's Theory of Meaning	13
	Psychoanalysis and Medicine	22
	Mechanical Explanation	32
	Biological Explanation	56
Chapter Two	The Background of the Existential Critique	70
	Binswanger's First Phase	70
	Being and Time	90
Chapter Three	The Existential Critique of Psychoanalytic Theory	108
	The Self as Thing	114
	Irrationality and the Meaning of Dreams and Symptoms	118
	Past and Present: The Infantile Origin of Symptoms	135
	Instinct and Meaning	142
	Determinism and Freedom	151
	The Nature of Therapy	155
Chapter Four	The Historical Significance of the Existential Critique	166
Chapter Five	The Existentialist Concept of the Self	218
	Ludwig Binswanger	218
	Jean-Paul Sartre	233
	Medard Boss	247
		xi

CONTENTS

Chapter Six	Authenticity as an Ethic and as a Concept of Health	250
Chapter Seven	Ideology and Social Theory in Psychoanalysis and Existentialism	290
	Three Types of Alienation	290
	Boss, Heidegger and the Technological Critique of Modernity	298
	Social Causation and Anxiety in Binswanger	307
	Sartre: The Marxist Approach to the Existential Dilemma	312
	Bibliography	336
	Index	347