

Contents

	PAGE
FOREWORD	vii
CHAPTER
I. THE PROBLEM	3
II. HUMANISTIC ETHICS: THE APPLIED SCIENCE OF THE ART OF LIVING	8
1. Humanistic vs. Authoritarian Ethics	8
2. Subjectivistic vs. Objectivistic Ethics	14
3. The Science of Man	20
4. The Tradition of Humanistic Ethics	25
5. Ethics and Psychoanalysis	30
III. HUMAN NATURE AND CHARACTER	38
1. The Human Situation	38
a. Man's Biological Weakness	39
b. The Existential and the Historical Dichot- omies in Man	40
2. Personality	50
a. Temperament	51
b. Character	54
(1) The Dynamic Concept of Character	54
(2) Types of Character: The Nonproduc- tive Orientations	62
(a) The Receptive Orientation	62

CHAPTER	PAGE
(b) The Exploitative Orientation	64
(c) The Hoarding Orientation	65
(d) The Marketing Orientation	67
(3) The Productive Orientation	82
(a) General Characteristics	82
(b) Productive Love and Thinking	96
(4) Orientations in the Process of Social- ization	107
(5) Blends of Various Orientations	112
 IV. PROBLEMS OF HUMANISTIC ETHICS	 118
1. Selfishness, Self-Love, and Self-Interest	119
2. Conscience, Man's Recall to Himself	141
a. Authoritarian Conscience	143
b. Humanistic Conscience	158
3. Pleasure and Happiness	172
a. Pleasure as a Criterion of Value	172
b. Types of Pleasure	183
c. The Problem of Means and Ends	191
4. Faith as a Character Trait	197
5. The Moral Powers in Man	210
a. Man, Good or Evil?	210
b. Repression vs. Productiveness	226
c. Character and Moral Judgment	231
6. Absolute vs. Relative, Universal vs. Socially Immanent Ethics	237
 V. THE MORAL PROBLEM OF TODAY	 245
 INDEX	 251