

TABLE OF CONTENTS

1. INTRODUCTION: NARRATING COMMUNAL VIOLENCE IN CONTEMPORARY INDIAN ENGLISH FICTION	1
1.1 Representations of Communal Violence in Indian English Novels: Subject Matter and Objectives	3
1.2 State of Research.....	6
1.3 Corpus, Approach and Structure	9
2. COMMUNALISM AND COMMUNAL VIOLENCE IN POST-PARTITION INDIA	12
2.1 ‘When a Big Tree Falls, the Earth Trembles’: The Anti-Sikh Violence of 1984	21
2.2 Hindu Nationalist Mobilisation and the Ayodhya Dispute in the Late 1980s and Early 1990s	25
2.3 ‘We Have No Orders to Save You’: The 2002 Anti-Muslim Violence in Gujarat	33
3. LITERARY REPRESENTATIONS OF COMMUNAL VIOLENCE IN INDIAN ENGLISH NOVELS.....	39
4. SETTINGS, TRIGGERS, CATALYSTS: DEPICTING THE CONTEXTS OF COMMUNAL VIOLENCE	51
4.1 ‘Wielding History Like a Battle Axe’: The Role of the Past and History Writing in the Production of Communal Sentiments.....	52
4.1.1 Writing Nonsectarian Histories of Sectarian Strife in Shashi Tharoor’s Riot	53
4.1.2 ‘A Live, Fiery Thing, as Capable of Explosion as a Time Bomb’ – History in Githa Hariharan’s In Times of Siege	61
4.2 Motives and Explanations for Communal Violence	67
4.2.1 ‘How Long Can He Live Off the Riots of ‘84?’ – Politics and Pragmatic Interests in Sujit Saraf’s The Peacock Throne	67
4.2.2 ‘Never Big on Religion or Politics’ – Chetan Bhagat’s The 3 Mistakes of My Life and the (Im)possibility of Neutrality	73
4.3 ‘When a Combination of Things Happens at Once’: Concluding Thoughts on Proximate and Indirect Causes of Communal Violence.....	79

5. NARRATING THE MOMENT OF VIOLENCE	85
5.1 ‘Don’t Listen to the Dead’ – Unreliable Narration and Magical Realism in Raj Kamal Jha’s Fireproof	86
5.2 Picturing the Moment of Violence.....	99
5.2.1 ‘You Had to See the Horror to Believe the Horror’ – Photographs in Jaspreet Singh’s Helium	100
5.2.2 Ekphrastic Strategies in Githa Hariharan’s Fugitive Histories	106
5.3 Concluding Thoughts: Modes of Narrating Moments of Violence.....	116
 6. THE AFTERMATH OF COMMUNAL VIOLENCE	121
6.1 ‘Prisoners in Our Own City ... in Jail at Home’ – Borders and Displacement in Fugitive Histories	121
6.2 ‘The Past Refused to Become the Past’ – Collective Amnesia and Family Matters in Jaspreet Singh’s Helium and Shonali Bose’s Amu	131
6.2.1 Archiving Memories in Helium	133
6.2.2 Divided Families and Lost Family Narratives in Helium and Amu	138
6.3 Concluding Thoughts on the Aftermath of Communal Violence: Trauma, Memory, Grief.....	145
 7. ‘A DEPRESSING THOUGHT: ARE WE DOOMED THEN?’ – IMAGINING COMMUNAL HARMONY IN NARRATIVES OF VIOLENCE.....	151
 8. NARRATING POST-PARTITION OUTBREAKS OF COMMUNAL VIOLENCE: A CONCLUSION	162
 9. WORKS CITED.....	172