

Contents

List of Illustrations	page viii
Prologue	ix
Acknowledgments	xv
Note on Text and Translation	xvii
1 Introduction: The Vita nuova as Theological Revelation through Lyrical Interpretation
Salutation and Salvation	1
Lyrical Exaltation and Theological Revelation	9
Conspectus	14
2 The New Testament Model of Salvific Reminiscence
Corollaries from the Convivio	16
3 From Appearing and Imagining to Revealing through Interpreting: The Vita nuova 's Hermeneutics of Witness
Poetic Epiphany as Life-Transforming Theophany	30
Dialectic of Subjective Appearing and Visionary Revealing	31
The Figurative Logic of the Unique and Its Multiple Repetitions	38
The Reflected Image and Its Being Broken Open to Transcendence	48
Dialectical Interpenetration of Inspiration and Reflection	51
The Intimate Secret of the Subject's Nothingness	54
4 Phenomenology versus Hermeneutics (Debate with Harrison): Revelation as Mediation
Hermeneutics of (Theological) Transcendence	67
Note on Current Criticism and Its Demythologizing of Theological Transcendence	73
5 History of Effect and a New Hermeneutics-Oriented Critical Paradigm
Transmedial Transmissions: Dante Gabriel Rossetti and the Cult of the Vita nuova	83
Picture Album	87
	108

6 Conclusion: The Existential Grounding of Revelation in Lyric	122
From Dante's "Little Book" to the Book of – and as – Revelation	129
Coda	137
Epilogue: Dream Epistemology and Religious Revelation in Dante's Vita nuova	139
The Vita nuova's Initiatory Dream in its Cultural Contexts	141
De-limiting Knowledge through Poetry and through Dream	147
Dream Hermeneutics	153
Appendix: Italian Text and English Translation of the Vita nuova	158
Chapter I: Incipit of Book of Memory	159
Chapter II: Dante's First Meeting with Beatrice	160
Chapter III: Greeting and Dream	161
Chapter IV: Dante Sick and Secretive in Love	164
Chapter V: A Screen Lady	165
Chapter VI: A Serventese for Sixty Ladies, Beatrice the Ninth	166
Chapter VII: The Screen Lady Departs Outside Florence	166
Chapter VIII: Poem on the Death of Beatrice's Companion	168
Chapter IX: Love Appears on Road from Florence and Designates Another Screen Lady	170
Chapter X: Beatrice Denies Dante Her Greeting	172
Chapter XI: Miraculous Effects of Beatrice's Greeting Described	172
Chapter XII: Dream of God of Love as Young Man Dressed in White – and a Ballad	173
Chapter XIII: Thoughts of Love at War with One Another	177
Chapter XIV: Dante Distracted ("Transfigured") and Mocked at Marriage Feast	179
Chapter XV: Why Dante Continues to Try to See His Lady	182
Chapter XVI: The State of Being in Love – Its Conflicts	184
Chapter XVII: A New and Nobler Theme	185
Chapter XVIII: Interrogated by Ladies, Dante Discovers New Matter for His Poetry	186
Chapter XIX: First Canzone of Praise: "Ladies Who Have Intelligence of Love"	188
Chapter XX: What Is Love? "Love and the Gentle Heart Are One Thing"	192
Chapter XXI: How Beatrice Awakens Love	193
Chapter XXII: The Death of Beatrice's Father	195
Chapter XXIII: Dante's Delirious Premonition of Beatrice's Death (Second Canzone)	198
Chapter XXIV: Allegorical Procession Featuring Giovanna and Beatrice	204
Chapter XXV: Philosophical Justification of Treating Love Rhetorically as a Substance	206
Chapter XXVI: Height of Praise Poetry – "Tanto Gentile e Tanto Onesta Pare"	209

Chapter XXVII: Beatrice's Effects on Dante and a Canzone Fragment	212
Chapter XXVIII: The Death of Beatrice	213
Chapter XXIX: Her Miraculous Number – She was Nine (Analogically)	214
Chapter XXX: Dante's Letter to the Leaders of the Land	215
Chapter XXXI: The Canzone (Third) of Mourning for Beatrice	216
Chapter XXXII: A Poem on Sighs for One of Beatrice's Brothers	219
Chapter XXXIII: Two Stanzas of a Canzone	220
Chapter XXXIV: Drawing an Angel on the Anniversary of Beatrice's Death	221
Chapter XXXV: The Gentle Lady at the Window Takes Pity on Dante	223
Chapter XXXVI: A Further Sonnet of Infatuation with the Lady at the Window	224
Chapter XXXVII: Dante Reproves His Own Pleasure in the Pitying Lady at the Window	225
Chapter XXXVIII: Battle of Heart versus Soul, Eyes versus Remembrance	227
Chapter XXXIX: A Strong Imagination of Beatrice Fortifies Dante against Temptation	229
Chapter XL: Pilgrims to Rome Made to Participate in Civic Mourning	230
Chapter XLI: Poem for Two Gentle Ladies: "Oltre la Spera"	232
Chapter XLII: Marvelous Vision of Beatrice in Glory and Suspension of Dante's Writing	234
Index	235