

The Contents of the CHAPTERS of this B O O K E.

HE broad-fronted Phalange, the deepe Phalange, or Herse, and the vn-euen fronted-Phalange.	Chapter 30
Parembole, Protaxis, Epitaxis, Prostaxis, Entaxis, and Hypotaxis.	Chap. 31
The Use and advantage of these exercise of Armes.	chap. 34
Of the signes of direction which are to be given to the Army, and of their severall kinds.	chap. 35
Of marching, and of the diuers kinds of Battailes fit for a march. And first of the right Induction, of the Calembolos, and of the Triphalange, to be opposed against it.	chap. 36
Of the Paragoge or Deduction.	chap. 37
Of the Phalange Amphistomus.	chap. 38
Of the Phalange Antistomus.	chap. 39
Of the Diphalange Antistomus.	chap. 40
Of the Peristomus Diphalange.	chap. 41
Of the Diphalange homoiostomus, and of the Plinshium.	chap. 42
Of the Diphalange Heterostomus.	chap. 43
Of the Horse Rhombe, and of the Foot-halfe-Moone to encounter it.	chap. 44
Of the Horse-battaile Heteromekes, and the Plagiophalange to be opposed against it.	chap. 45
Of another kinde of Rhombe for Herse-men, and of the foot-battaile called Epicampios Ernpiothia to encounter it.	chap. 46
Of the Foot-battaile call'd Cyrte, which is to be set against the Epicampios.	chap. 47
Of the Tetragonall Horse-battaile, and of the Wedge of Foot to be opposed against it.	chap. 48
Of the Foot-battaile called Plesum, and of the Winding or Saw-fronted battaile to encounter it.	chap. 49
Of the Hyperphalangesis, and Hyperkerasis, and of Asteruatiou.	chap. 50
Of conueighing the carriage of the Army.	chap. 51
Of the words of Command, and certaine obseruations about them.	chap. 52
Of the words of Direction.	chap. 54