

Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
Introduction: Dickens and Victorian Psychology	1
1. Mind Reading: Thought, Introspection, and the Legibility of the Body in Nicholas Nickleby and Martin Chuzzlewit	45
2. “What Is Natural in Me”: David Copperfield , Faculty Psychology, and the Association of Ideas	96
3. Mysteries of the Mind: First-Person Narration, Physiognomy, and Bleak House	124
4. The Latent and the Manifest: Faculty Psychology, Psycho-Physiology, and the Echoes of Evolution in Great Expectations	167
5. “An Earthy Flavor Throughout”: Double Consciousness and the Redefinition of the Soul in The Mystery of Edwin Drood	207
Afterword	239
Bibliography	245
Index	267