

---

Contents

---

Acknowledgements	vi
Preface	vii
Introduction
Writing Africa: African social history and the sociology of history	i
Part One Re-writing History
1 The matriarchal roots of Africa	29
2 Race and gender: Cheikh Anta Diop's moral philosophy	52
3 Theorizing matriarchy in Africa: kinship ideologies and systems in Africa and Europe	71
4 Women's achievements in African political systems: transforming culture for 500 years	89
5 Gender and social movements in Africa: a West African experience	109
6 Gender and the contestation of religion: a historical perspective on African societies	144
Part Two Decolonizing History
7 African women and politics: a history of transformation	161
8 Cycles of Western imperialism: feminism, race, gender, class and power	183
9 In the company of women: love, struggle, class and our feminisms	199
Index	208