

VIII

CONTENTS

Acknowledgements	i
Preface	ii
Abstract	v
Texts	xi
List of Tables	xii
Transcription Conventions	xiv
Chapter 1 Introduction	1
1.1 The Origin of the Present Study	1
1.2 Recent Developments in Intonation Theory	3
1.3 Issues in Current Intonation Studies	10
1.4 The Roles of Intonation	16
i) The Attitudinal Function	17
ii) The Communicative Function	19
iii) The Informational Function	20
iv) The Syntactic Function	23
v) The Textual Function	26
vi) The Stylistic Function	28
1.5 Theoretical Preliminaries	29
Chapter 2 Intonation and Syntax	32
2.1 The Nature of a Grammatical Role in Intonation	33
2.2 The Co-extensiveness of Intonation and Grammatical Units	41
2.3 Tonality and the Domain of a Grammatical Feature	53
2.4 Tonicity and Grammar	61
2.5 Intonation and the Mood System	65
2.6 Neutral Tonality	68
2.6.1 Single Clauses	69
2.6.2 Simple Clauses	77
2.6.3 Straightforward Clauses	117
2.6.4 Short Clauses	132
Chapter 3 Intonation and Information Structure	142
3.1 Tonality and the Distribution of Units of Information	143
3.2 The Form of Intonation Units	155
3.3 Halliday's Compound Tones	166
3.4 Brown's 'Pause-Defined Units'	170
3.5 The Function of Tonicity	183
3.5.1 Halliday: 'New' and 'Given' Information	185
3.5.2 Ladd: 'Broad' and 'Narrow' Focus, Accentability, and De-accenting	188
3.5.3 Cruttenden: 'Event' Sentences, Final Adverbials, and 'Insists'	191

3.5.4	Default Accent	199
3.6	Problems in the Perception of Tonics	201
3.7	The Phonetic Form of Tonics	208
3.8	Commentary on Tonic Analysis	214
3.9	Tone and the Status of Information	219
3.9.1	Dependent and Independent Units of Intonation	220
3.9.2	Incomplete Information	222
3.9.3	Minor Information	223
3.9.4	Thematic Marking	225
3.9.5	Implication	232
3.10	Commentary on Tone Analysis in Information Structure	238

Chapter 4 Intonation and Phonological Paragraphs 246

4.1	Introduction: the Early Analyses	246
4.2	Schubiger and Kingdon	248
4.3	Trim	256
4.4	The New Intonation Analysis: Crystal and Halliday	258
4.5	Fox's 'Paratones'	262
4.6	Pike's Development of a Hierarchy	265
4.7	Lehiste	270
4.8	The Birmingham Studies	274
4.9	The Edinburgh Studies	281
4.10	Couper-Kuhlen's Theory of Intonational Cohesion	291
4.11	A Final Synthesis	294

Chapter 5 Intonation and Communicative Functions 299

5.1	Communicative Functions	302
5.2	The Question of 'Neutral' Forms	309
5.3	An Analysis of Communicative Functions	318
5.4	The Provision of Information and the Expression of Reality and Belief	333
5.5	The Elicitation of Information and the Enquiry after Reality and Belief	342
5.6	Enumerations	350
5.7	Appeals	354
5.8	Challenges	356
5.9	Exclamations	360
5.10	Discourse Commentary	362
5.11	Suasion	366
5.12	Social Interchange	371
5.13	Summary	381

Chapter 6	Intonation and the Expression of Attitude	382
6.1	Intonational Lexicons	383
6.2	The Definition of 'Attitude'	385
6.3	The Problem of Inconsistencies	386
6.4	The Question of Attitudinally 'Neutral' Forms	388
6.5	Intonation Form and Other Factors	392
6.6	A Review of Intonational Lexicons	398
6.6.1	Palmer	399
6.6.2	Schubiger	401
6.6.3	Gimson	404
6.6.4	O'Connor & Arnold	408
6.6.5	Halliday	415
6.6.6	Crystal	418
6.6.7	Brown	422
6.6.8	Pike	424
6.6.9	Lieberman	433
6.6.10	Ladd	439
6.7	Preliminaries to a New Approach	440
6.8	Intonational Resources for Attitudinal Meaning	447
6.8.1	Neutral Forms	448
6.8.2	Variations in Tones	449
6.8.3	General Pitch Level and Pitch Range	454
6.8.4	Heads	457
6.8.5	Low and High Heads	460
6.8.6	Wide Descending and Ascending Heads	462
6.8.7	Stepping Heads	464
6.8.8	Glissando Heads	466
6.8.9	Pre-heads	469
6.8.10	Summary	473
Chapter 7	The Stylistic Potential of Intonation	476
7.1	Prosodic and Paralinguistic Features	476
7.2	Prosodic Characteristics of Informal Conversation	481
7.3	An Anecdotal Text	488
7.4	News Reading	495
7.5	Prayer	500
7.6	Public Reading	507
7.7	The Prosodic Identification of Genres	510
7.8	Review	514
Chapter 8	Intonation Systems in Operation	515
Bibliography		524

Texts

1	'Talking about football' (Crystal & Davy, 1975:19-20)	145
1a	Tonic analysis of Text 1	215
1b	Tone Analysis of Text 1	238
2	"I regret putting the people out of the South Side and central Edinburgh, you know" (Brown, Currie & Kenworthy, 1980:66-7)	174
2a	A re-interpretation of Text 2	181
3	"I've come to see you with the rash I've got on my chin" (Brazil, Coulthard & Johns, 1980:16)	243
4	'Bonfire Night' (Crystal & Davy, 1975:28-29)	320
5	Anecdote: "Well, I went to Cardiff station in the morning"	489
6	News reading: "The final group of Britons" (BBC Radio 4, January 1986)	498
7	Prayer in unison: "Our Father"	502
8	Public prayer (introductory) "Almighty God"	504
9	Public prayer (impromptu) "... and we thank Thee, our Father"	505
10	Bible reading (public) "In the end of the Sabbath" (Matthew, chapter 28, verses 1-8)	507

List of Tables

1	Correspondence of 'tone units' and clause types	42
2	Interpenetration of (double rank) grammatical and phonological hierarchies, and their correlation with language activity units	52
3	Chart of Paired Grammatical Levels (Pike & Pike)	53
4	Tests for distinguishing adjuncts from more essential clause elements	109
5	Percentage distribution of grammatical content in each intonational unit	138
6	The junctural features of feet	163
7	Relationships between units in a double rank phonological hierarchy	269
8	Interpenetration of (double rank) grammatical and phonological hierarchies, and their correlation with language activity units	269
9	Contrastive, additive and equative information	275
10	Comparative Table of analyses of levels above the intonation unit	290
11	Double-ranking phonological hierarchy	297
12	H. E. Palmer's (1922) Lexicon	400
13	Schubiger's (1958) Lexicon	402-3
14	Gimson's (1962) Lexicon	405-6
15	O'Connor & Arnold's (1961) Lexicon	410-12
16	O'Connor & Arnold's (1973) Lexicon	414
17	Halliday's (1967/1970) Lexicon	417
18	Crystal's (1969) categories	419
19	Crystal's (1975) lexicon	420-21
20	Brown's (1977) lexicon	423
21	Pike's (1945) lexicon	429-30

XIII

22	Pike's (1945) tonal morphology	432
23	Liberman's (1979) part lexicon	437
24	A Comparison of Crystal's and Brown's prosodic/ paralinguistic analysis of emotions	456
25	Neutral and attitudinally marked tones, heads/ pre-heads	475
26	The prosodic and paralinguistic evidence of different genres	511