
Contents

	Editor's Preface	xi
	Introductory note	1
1	The new century	3
	1900–1914
	I Introduction	3
	II Edwardian poetry	8
	III The Edwardian novel	16
	IV Drama and controversy	24
	V The Irish movement	32
	VI Various prose writers	36
2	Hors de combat	40
	The 1910s and 1920s at home
	I Introduction	40
	II Society under judgment	42
	III Decadents and others	48
	IV Ireland, the North, and Wales	54
	V Georgian poetry	57
3	The first world war	66
	I Introduction	66
	II The war poets	68
	III Other soldier poets	76
	IV Novelists and chroniclers	84
4	The modern movement	88
	I Introduction	88
	II W. B. Yeats	90
	III Ford Madox Ford and Ezra Pound	93
	IV T. S. Eliot	97
	V James Joyce	103
	VI D. H. Lawrence and Wyndham Lewis	108

5	The post-war scene	114
	The 1920s and 1930s
	I Introduction	114
	II Sophistication and satire	117
	III Moral and social concern	127
	IV Popular writers	135
	V Three Scottish poets	140
6	Today the struggle	143
	The 1930s and 1940s
	I Introduction	143
	II Poets of the thirties	145
	III Romantics and visionaries	153
	IV Dominant novelists	156
	V Miscellaneous fiction	163
	VI Irish writers and others	168
7	After firing	175
	The 1940s and 1950s
	I Introduction	175
	II Servicemen poets	177
	III Scottish and Irish poets	181
	IV Other poets and verse dramatists	185
	V The realistic novel	190
	VI Morality and fantasy	200
	VII History and criticism	207
8	Post-modern reassessment	210
	The 1950s and 1960s
	I Introduction	210
	II The New Drama	211
	III Protest fiction	219
	IV The post-war novel	223
	V English and Welsh poets	235
	VI Scottish and Irish poets	246
9	Recent voices	251
	The 1960s and 1970s
	I Introduction	251
	II The theatre	252
	III The novel	258
	IV Poetry	266

Further reading	275
Bibliographies	278
Chronological Table	279
Index	297