Introduction	27
Sir Thomas Wyatt (?1503-1542)
Whoso list to hunt, I know where is an hind . . .	33
√ A renouncing of love √	33
Divers doth use, as I have heard and know . . .	34
The lover compareth his state to a ship in perilous storm tossed on the sea	34
I find no peace, and all my war is done . . .	35
My love took scorn my service to retain . . .	35
The pillar perished is whereto I leant . . .	36
You that in love find luck and abundance . . .	36
Henry Howard, Earl of Surrey (?1517-1547)
Description of Spring, wherein each thing renews, save only the Lover	37
Vow to love faithfully, howsoever he be rewarded	37
I never saw you, madam, lay apart . . .	38
The fancy, which that I have served long . . .	38
Th' Assyrian king, in peace, with foul desire . . .	39
Norfolk sprang thee, Lambeth holds thee dead . . .	39
George Gascoigne (?1542-1577)
I looked of late and saw thee look askance . . .	40
You must not wonder though you think it strange . . .	40
That self-same tongue which first did thee entreat . . .	41
Edmund Spenser (?1552-1599)
One day I wrote her name upon the strand . . .	41
What guile is this, that those her golden tresses . . .	42
Rudely thou wrongest my dear heart's desire . . .	42
Men call you fair, and you do credit it . . .	43
Like as a huntsman after weary chase . . .	43
Happy ye leaves whenas those lily hands . . .	44
This holy season, fit to fast and pray . . .	44
Most glorious Lord of lifel that on this day . . .	45

	John Florio (1553-1625)
	Concerning the honour of books	48
	Sir Philip Sidney (1554-1586)
	With how sad steps, O Moon, thou climb'st the skies . . .	49
	Come Sleep, O Sleep! the certain knot of peace . . .	49
	My true love hath my heart, and I have his . . .	50
	Soul's joy, bend not those morning stars from me . . .	50
	Having this day my horse, my hand, my lance . . .	51
	No more, my dear, no more these counsels try . . .	51
	Thou blind man's mark, thou fool's self-chosen snare . . .	52
	Because I breathe not love to every one . . .	52
	Loving in truth, and fain in verse my love to show . . .	53
	Leave me, O Love, which reachest but to dust . . .	53
	Fulke Greville, Lord Brooke (1554-1628)
	The nurse-life wheat, within his green husk growing . . .	54
	Cupid, thou naughty boy, when thou wert loathed . . .	54
	Satan, no woman, yet a wandering spirit . . .	55
	In night when colours all to black are cast . . .	55
	George Chapman (?1559-1634)
	Muses that sing Love's sensual empery . . .	56
	Robert Greene (?1560-1592)
	Reason, that long in prison of my will . . .	56
	What meant the poets in invective verse . . .	57
	Henry Constable (1562-1613)
	To St Michael the Archangel	57
	To St Katharine	58

-------------	----

William Shakespeare (1564-1616)

√ Shall I compare thee to a summer's day . . .	64
√ When, in disgrace with fortune and men's eyes . . .	65
√ Full many a glorious morning have I seen . . .	65
No more be grieved at that which thou hast done . . .	66
If the dull substance of my flesh were thought . . .	66
Not marble, nor the gilded monuments . . .	67
Sin of self-love possesseth all mine eye . . .	67
Since brass, nor stone, nor earth, nor boundless sea . . .	68
Tired with all these, for restful death I cry . . .	68
No longer mourn for me when I am dead . . .	69
√ That time of year thou mayst in me behold . . .	69
Farewell! thou art too dear for my possessing . . .	70
√ They that have power to hurt and will do none . . .	70
From you have I been absent in the spring . . .	71
√ When in the chronicle of wasted time . . .	71
Not mine own fears, nor the prophetic soul . . .	72
√ Let me not to the marriage of true minds . . .	72
That you were once unkind befriends me now . . .	73
'Tis better to be vile than vile esteemed . . .	73
How oft, when thou, my music, music play'st . . .	74
√ Th' expense of spirit in a waste of shame . . .	74
My mistress' eyes are nothing like the sun . . .	75

12	When my love swears that she is made of truth . . .	page 75
	Two loves I have of comfort and despair . . .	76
	√Poor soul, the centre of my sinful earth . . .	76
	My love is as a fever, longing still . . .	77
John Davies, of Hereford (?1565–1618)
	The author loving these homely meats specially, viz.: cream, pancakes, buttered pippin-pies, &c.	77
King James I (1566–1625)
	The azured vault, the crystal circles bright . . .	78
Sir John Davies (1569–1626)
	If you would know the love which I you bear . . .	78
	In this sweet book, the treasury of wit . . .	79
Ben Jonson (1572–1637)
	To the noble lady, the Lady Mary Wroth	79
John Donne (1572–1631)
	As due by many titles I resign . . .	80
	Oh my black soull now art thou summoned . . .	80
	I am a little world made cunningly . . .	81
	At the round earth's imagin'd corners, blow . . .	81
	√Death, be not proud, though some have called thee . . .	82
	What if this present were the world's last night . . .	82
	Batter my heart, three-personed God . . .	83
	Since she whom I lov'd hath paid her last debt . . .	83
	Show me, dear Christ, thy spouse, so bright and clear . . .	84
	Oh, to vex me, contraries meet in one . . .	84
Richard Barnfield (1574–1627)
	If Music and sweet Poetry agree . . .	85
Lord Herbert of Cherbury (1583–1648)
	Black Itself	85
	Lord, thus I sin, repent, and sin again . . .	86
William Drummond of Hawthornden (1585–1649)
	I know that all beneath the moon decays . . .	86
	Sleep, Silence' child, sweet father of soft rest . . .	87
