

Contents

Series editor's introduction	vii
Notes on contributors	xi
Acknowledgements	xv
Introduction	1
Peter Verdonk
1 To analyse a poem stylistically: 'To Paint a Water Lily' by Ted Hughes	7
Mick Short
2 Person to person: relationships in the poetry of Tony Harrison	21
H. G. Widdowson
3 Approaching Hill's 'Of Commerce and Society' through lexis	32
Michael Toolan
4 The lyrical game: C. Day Lewis's 'Last Words'	46
Walter Nash
5 Between languages: grammar and lexis in Thomas Hardy's 'The Oxen'	57
Ronald Carter
6 The auditory imagination and the music of poetry	68
Richard D. Cureton
7 Teach yourself 'rhetoric': an analysis of Philip Larkin's 'Church Going'	87
Katie Wales
8 (Non)-communication in the park	100
Ruth Waterhouse

vi Contents

- 9 Poetry and public life: a contextualized reading of Seamus Heaney's 'Punishment' 112
Peter Verdonk
- 10 The difficult style of The Waste Land: a literary-pragmatic perspective on modernist poetry 134
Roger D. Sell
- 11 The poem and occasion 159
Balz Engler
- 12 'Yo soy la Malinche': Chicana writers and the poetics of ethnonationalism 171
Mary Louise Pratt
- Index* 188