

Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
Introduction	1
The antimasque: a history of growth and decline – Jonson and Barthes – Readers as understanders: Jonsonian masque in the twentieth century – Some speculative conclusions on the growth of the antimasque
1 ‘Free from servile flattery’: panegyric and the formation of the antimasque	26
Jonsonian panegyric: a textual criticism of ‘To Sir Robert Wroth’ – Desire and difference: The Masque of Blackness and The Masque of Beauty
2 Arthur and Augustus: masque and the historical myth	63
History and myth – Jonson and the chivalric ideal – Reading the chivalric masques – Harsh and unendurable government: the Roman plays – Reconciling Rome and London
3 Present occasions and removed mysteries: the topicality of the antimasque	101
Hymenaei – Love Restored – Mercury Vindicated from the Alchemists at Court – To make readers understanders – Satire and the authoritative community
4 Jonson’s consuming satire and the carnivalesque antimasque	133
Bartholomew Fair and the antimasque – The carnivalesque antimasque: Love Freed from Ignorance and Folly and The Irish Masque at Court – Some conclusions on the expansion of the antimasque

5	Heavenly love and the collapse of the court masque	171
	Love's Triumph Through Callipolis - The collapse of the dialogic masque - Caroline masque as the absolutist ritual
	Postscript	186
	Jonson's heirs: Shirley and Milton
	The Triumph Of Peace - Comus
	Bibliography	193
	Index	205