

Contents

Preface	ix
Introduction	xiii
CHAPTER 1
Africa and Europe: The Historic Encounter and Its Legacy	3
Africa before the Atlantic Slave Trade	3
The Atlantic Slave Trade	4
Abolition: Humanitarianism or Capitalism?	9
Colonization and the Image of Africa	15
“Race” and Pseudoscience	19
CHAPTER 2
Pre-Henty: Juvenile Novels and the British Empire	25
Defoe and the Adventure Novel: Robinson Crusoe	30
The School Story: Thomas Hughes’s Tom Brown’s Schooldays	36
Captain Marryat’s Masterman Ready	42
W.H.G. Kingston’s In the Wilds of Africa	48
Ballantyne’s Black Ivory	53
CHAPTER 3
To Africa With Henty: The Socio-Cultural Background	65
Romance and Imperialist Wars: From the School to the Battlefield	72
History, Ethnography, and Persistent Stereotypes	75
Henty: The Favorite Boys’ Author	78
The Henty Hero	81

CHAPTER 4
To Africa with Henty: The Gold Coast and the Sudan	85
By Sheer Pluck	86
The Dash for Khartoum	95
With Kitchener in the Sudan	103
CHAPTER 5
To South Africa with Henty	113
The Young Colonists	115
With Buller in Natal, or a Born Leader	122
With Roberts to Pretoria	129
CHAPTER 6
Henty's Literary Compatriots: Rider Haggard and Joseph Conrad	139
King Solomon's Mines	141
Heart of Darkness	153
CHAPTER 7
Conclusion: Legacy and Impact of Nineteenth-Century Juvenile Literature	167
Works Consulted	189
Index	199