

Table of Contents

Preface	ix
Introduction: The Challenge of Humanism: Classical Imitation and the Problem of Style	1
Chapter I: Style and the Vernacular: Renaissance Developments in Compositional Theory	11
Chapter II: Elyot and Vocabulary: Lexical Borrowings in the Text of the Governour	49
Chapter III: Cohesion and Elocutio: Applying an External Mask of Literacy	69
Chapter IV: Imitation as a Resource of Style: Elyot and the Integration of Source into Structure	99
Chapter V: The Paradox of Imitation: Irony and Artistry in Castiglione's Humanist Dialogue	123
Chapter VI: The Social Context of Style: Institutions and Power as Rhetorical Motive	147
Conclusion: The Interpretation of History and the Development of National and Individual Style	171
Appendices	175
Bibliography	181
Index	195