

Contents

	page
Acknowledgments	ix
Preface	xi
Introduction	I
Part One
Citizen Jews in a Christian State
I The Struggle for Jewish Emancipation	9
The Background
II The Quiet Revolution	18
Moses Mendelssohn—the Kulturverein— education—conversion and emigration—religious conflicts—Gabriel Riesser
III The Prussian State and the Jews	51
The Jewish question and class conflict
IV Unexpected Developments	65
Friedrich Wilhelm IV—the Damascus affair
V The Political Image of Jews	76
Heinrich Heine—Carl H. Hermes—the Seventh Rhine-Province Landtag
Part Two
The Radical Critique of Judaism
Introduction	92
VI The Radical Image of Jews	99
David Friedrich Strauss—Ludwig Feuerbach— Moses Hess

CONTENTS

VII	The Radical Challenge to Jews Bruno Bauer: the man—'Die Judenfrage'— 'Die Fähigkeit'—the impact of Bauer	125
VIII	The Marxian Response The critique of religion—the 'Deutsch- Französische Jahrbücher'—on 'Die Judenfrage'—on 'Die Fähigkeit'—Marx's revised critique of Judaism	148
Part Three	On the Jewish Question and on the Questions of Jews
IX	The Quest for a Jewish-Socialist Synthesis Earliest responses to Marx—Moses Hess— Ber Borochov	187
X	Varieties of Marxist Solutions to the Jewish Problem Assimilationism—cultural autonomism: the Bund—Leninist-Stalinist territorialism (Otto Heller)—Trotskyist internationalism (Abram Léon)	200
XI	Marx and the Sociologists Max Weber—Werner Sombart—Max Horkheimer	214
Part Four	Marx and the Problem of Anti-Semitism
XII	Marxist Apologists	261
XIII	Marxist Defenders	268
XIV	Jewish Responses to Marx	280
XV	Karl Marx in Israel	290
XVI	The Jewishness of Marx	310
XVII	Marx and the Concept of Jewish Self-Hatred	331
XVIII	The Anti-Semitism of Marx and the Use of Marx in Anti-Semitism	344
XIX	Excursus: Marx and the Jews of Jerusalem	359
	Epilogue	365
	Notes	370
	Annotated Bibliography	438
	General Bibliography	451
	Index	461