

CONTENTS

Preface	VII
Abbreviations	VIII
INTRODUCTION	I
I. THE PREHISTORY OF THE MARXIAN CONCEPT OF THE ASIATIC MODE OF PRODUCTION	4
The Legacy of Aristotle	5
Travellers' Tales	9
Oriental Despotism and French Politics, the First Phase: A Negative Model for Europe	12
Oriental Despotism and French Politics, the Second Phase: A Posi- tive Model for Europe	18
Empires Belonging to Space and not to Time	25
The Contribution of Political Economy: The Relation of Private Property to Progress	29
II. THE MARXIAN CONCEPT OF THE ASIATIC MODE OF PRO- DUCTION	40
Marx's Perception of the Non-Western World	40
Alternative Interpretations: The Question of the Continuity or Dis- continuity of Marx's Model of Asiatic Society	46
Marx's Analysis of Asiatic Society in the General Perspective of his Social Theory	51
The City in East and West	56
The Ancient East	59
The Asiatic Village System: Passport to the Future?	63
The Contribution of Engels to the Marxian Analysis of the Non- Western World	69
'Asiatic Feudalism'	75
The Asiatic Mode of Production and Sino-Soviet Relations	80
1. The Beginnings of the Debate: 1925-1926	81
2. The Introduction of the Term Asiatic Mode of Production	83
3. The Peak of the Debate 1929-1931	91
4. The Arguments Used Against the AMP Concept	95
The Impact of the Sino-Soviet Rift	100

III. THE ASIATIC MODE OF PRODUCTION IN RELATION TO THE PLACE OF GEOGRAPHICAL FACTORS IN HISTORICAL MATERIALISM	104
Marx on the Role of Geographical Factors in Historical Development	104
Engels' Account of Laws of Nature	112
The 'Geographical Deviation': Plekhanov	115
The 'Geographical Deviation': Wittfogel	125
Historical Materialism Versus Geographical Determinism: Stalin and Beyond	128
The Revolt of the Soviet Geographers against Stalin	129
The Reassessment of the Place of Geographical Factors in Historical Materialism	134
A Note on the Population Factor	136
IV. MARXIST PERSPECTIVES ON RUSSIAN HISTORY: THE PRACTICAL APPLICATION OF THE CONCEPT OF THE ASIATIC MODE OF PRODUCTION	140
Marx's Conception of the Character of the Russian State: Russia Contrasted with Europe	140
Marx and the Service-State Theory of Russian History: A Parallel Theory of the Non-European Character of Russian History	146
Russian History in European Dress: The Orthodox Marxist Approach	152
Plekhanov on Russian History: The Alternative Marxist Approach	156
Modernisation in a Non-Western Milieu: Trotsky on Russia's Past and Present	178
V. THE ASIATIC MODE OF PRODUCTION IN RELATION TO THE MARXIST ANALYSIS OF PROGRESS AND MODERNISATION	188
The Unilinear Schema of Social Development	188
The Hegelianised Version of the Unilinear Schema	198
Chronological and Logical Problems Associated with the Progressive Ranking of Socio-Economic Formations	203
The Multilinear Schema of History as Found in Marx	207
Variations of the Multilinear Schema as Applied to Pre-Capitalist Societies	209
The Dynamics of Modernisation in the Non-Western World: Towards a New Marxist Historiography	218
VI. EPILOGUE	228
Select Bibliography	235
Works by Marx and Engels	235
Other Works Consulted	236
Index	248