PART I: THE METHODOLOGY OF CAPITAL. AN ATTEMPT AT A RECONSTRUCTION

CHAPTER 1 / CASE STUDY: THE THEORY OF VALUE
1. The Law of Value	3
2. Transformations of the Law of Value in Capital	10
CHAPTER 2 / THE METHOD OF IDEALIZATION AND CONCRETIZATION
1. Introductory Comparative Analysis	23
2. Another Example: The Theory of Reproduction	25
3. Some Basic Notions: The Method of Idealization and Concretization	28
4. Current Interpretation of the Marxian Method	31
5. Galileo of the Social Sciences	34

PART: II: MARX'S IDEAS AND MODERN METHODOLOGICAL TRENDS

CHAPTER 3 / IDEALIZATION AND IDEAL-TYPICAL METHOD: MARX AND WEBER
1. Ideal-Typical Method	41
2. Idealization and the Ideal-Typical Method: Scope	43
3. Marx and Engels as Methodological Naturalists	44
4. Idealization and the Ideal-Typical Method: Methodological Nature	47
5. Idealization and the Ideal-Typical Method: Philosophical Assumptions	51

CHAPTER 4 / IDEALIZATION AND POSITIVISM
1. Extreme Positivist's Dilemma	54
2. Moderate Positivist's Dilemma	61
3. The Problem of Explanation	67
CHAPTER 5 / IDEALIZATION AND HYPOTHETICISM
1. Popper's Concept of Laws of Science	71
2. Popper's Concept of Testing	74
CHAPTER 6 / IDEALIZATION AND 'METHODOLOGICAL IRRATIONALISM'
1. The Principle of Empiricism	82
2. Kuhn's Criticism of Empiricism	83
3. Factual and Idealizational Empiricism	85
4. Reinterpretation of Kuhn's Observations	88
5. Is Irrationalism Necessary?	90
 PART III: AN ATTEMPT AT A SYSTEMATIC CONSTRUCTION OF THE IDEALIZATIONAL CONCEPT OF SCIENCE
CHAPTER 7 / ASSUMPTIONS
1. Essentialism and Ontological Phenomenalism	95
2. Idealizational and Factual Conceptions of Science	104
3. Idealizational Conception of Science: The Starting Point	106
CHAPTER 8 / THE MARXIAN MODEL OF SCIENTIFIC ACTIVITY (MODEL I)
1. Idealizing Assumptions of the Idealizational Theory of Scientific Activity	111
2. Pre-theoretical Aims	112
3. Law and Theory	119
4. Experimental Testing	125
5. Explanation	128
6. Idealization and Truth	134
CHAPTER 9 / DEDUCTION AND MODELLING (MODEL II)
