

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Preface	vii
Chapter I
The Drive to Poetry	1
A. The Psychic Stress
B. The Preoccupation with Fame and Death
C. The Search for Stimulus, Intensity, and Relaxation
D. Later Evidence
Chapter II
Autobiographical Versus Imaginary: From Alternate Dominance to Reunion	21
A. Artistic Alternations in the Early Poems
B. A Change in the Pattern of Alternations
C. Imaginative Evocation in the Later Poems
D. Persistence of the Philosophical Dilemma
Chapter III
Psychical Distance	57
A. The Problem Defined
B. The Effect of Medium on Psychical Distance
C. The Effect of Subject Matter on Psychical Distance
D. Uneven Distance
E. Multiple, Simultaneous Distances
Chapter IV
The Tone	105
A. The Rationale of Tone
B. Non-Specific Versus Specific Diction
C. Unmixed Tones
D. Mixed Tones
1. Contradictory Mixed Tones
2. Horizontally Mixed Tones Supported by Context
3. Vertically Mixed Tones Supported by Context
4. Contextually Supported, Unbalanced, Mixed Tones: Positive-in-the-Negative and Negative-in-the-Positive
E. Rhetorical Turns for Achieving Tone

Chapter V

Special Circumstances: The Pressure of Subjects, Persons, and Time	143
A. Special Circumstances Defined
B. The Immediately at Hand and Gestated
C. Witnesses to Writing
D. Speed: Composition and Gestation
E. A Comparison of the Three
F. What the Future Held

Chapter VI

The Tools of Nature	183
A. Nature Beneficial to Nature
B. Nature and Man, A Reciprocity
C. Nature, What It Is
1. Significance of Individual Forms
2. Early Sensuous Natural Imagery
3. Later Sensuous Natural Imagery
4. Later Complex Natural Imagery

Chapter VII

The Use of Nature	237
A. Piecemeal, Subordinate Nature
B. Early Natural Description
C. Later Natural Description
D. Subject: Poetry
E. Subject: Moods
F. Subject: Time and Distance
G. Subject: Abstractions
H. Subject: Motion
I. Subject: Woman
J. The Emergence of Myth in Keats's Natural Scenes

Bibliography	303
------------------------	-----

Index	309
-----------------	-----