

Contents

Preface	ix
Introduction: The South African Context	xiii
I. Apprenticeship	1
Early Life, Early Writings
Township Life—The Sophiatown “Trilogy”: No-Good Friday , Nongogo , and Tsotsi
II. Brothers and Other Lovers: “The Family”	35
Brothers Past, Present and Forever: The Blood Knot
The Past Revisited—Children and Parents: Hello and Goodbye
Lifemates: Boesman and Lena
The Nexus of Family Relationships: “The Family”
III. Time’s Toll	78
People Are Still Living There: People Are Living There
Two Teleplays: The Occupation and Mille Miglia
IV. The Playwright-Director and His Actors	95
Collaboration Begins: The Rehearsal Room and Serpent Players
Grotowski and Orestes
V. Collaboration Culminates and Ends	115
What’s in a Name: Sizwe Bansi Is Dead
Human Dignity Transcendent: The Island
Exposures of Love and Death: Statements after an Arrest under the Immorality Act
Politics and Fugard’s Critics
VI. Artisan and Artist Alone	148
Head, Hands, and Heart Divided: Dimetos
Suffero Ergo Sum: The Guest
VII. Surviving a Drought	167
Whose Home?: A Lesson from Aloes
August Postures: Marigolds in August

CONTENTS

VIII.	Fathers and Son: " Master Harold " . . . and the boys	184
IX.	Truths the Hand Can Touch	194
	Influences and Cross-Currents
	Language and Style
	Critical Reputation
	APPENDIX A: The Drummer	207
	APPENDIX B: Literary Ancestors of Dimetos	209
	APPENDIX C: Production Chronology of Works by Athol Fugard	213
	Notes	215
	Bibliography	234
	Index	245