

TABLE OF CONTENTS

| | |
|---|----|
| Chapter One: Character and Method of Pound's Literary Criticism; Method of Approach Adopted in This Study I. Pound's View of the Pragmatic Function of Criticism and the Corresponding Prevalence of the Concrete in his Own Criticism; the Conceptualized and the "Ideogrammic" Part of Pound's Poetics. II. The Present Study Primarily Concerned with the Conceptualized Poetics. Basic Method Adopted: Elucidation of the Conceptualized Poetics by means of Comparisons with Individual Predecessors. | 9 |
| Chapter Two: The Conception and Function of Poetry I. The "Normative" and "Organic" Conception of Poetry. II. Poetry as Anthropology: Representation of the World and Expression of the Poet's Emotions. "Application of Word to Thing". | 23 |
| Chapter Three: Scientia – Prerequisites for Poetic Composition I. The Poet's Consciousness and the Factors Determining it. II. Pound, Gourmont and the Functions of Translations. III. Pound and Goethe's Idea of Weltliteratur. | 36 |
| Chapter Four: Ars – The Principles of Poetic Composition I. Pound as Flaubert's Disciple: "The Prose Tradition in Verse". II. The Principle of "impassibilité". III. Le mot juste and its Implications. IV. Pound, Ford Madox Hueffer and the Problem of Poetic Diction. V. The Permanent Norms of Writing. | 48 |
| Chapter Five: Ingenium – "Organic" Form in Poetry I. The Problem of the Relationship between Hulme's Theory of the Image and Pound's Imagism. II. The Impact of the Idealist and Sensualist Currents in Gourmont's Thought on Pound's Theory of the Image. III. The Various Kinds of Images in Pound's Theory. IV. A Few Remarks concerning the "Organic" Nature of vers libre. V. The Synthesis of Scientia, Ars, Ingenium in Pound's Poetics. | 67 |

| | |
|---|-----|
| Chapter Six: The Categories and Components of Pound's Literary Tradition | 87 |
| I. The Relationship between Categories and "Lists". | |
| II. Problems in the Presentation of Pound's Literary Tradition. | |
| III. The Importance of the French Component; Gautier; Laforgue. | |
| Notes | 109 |
| Bibliography | 123 |
| Index | 127 |