

Contents

Preface	ix
Introduction	1

PART ONE

A Critique of the Leading Interpretations of the Political Theory Informing the Founding	50
--	----

1. The Old Orthodoxy and Its Demise 70
2. Marx and Weber 11
3. The Hartz Thesis 25
4. "Classical Republicanism" 28

PART TWO

The Framers' Conception of Civic Virtue, and the Philosophic Contests Out of Which That Conception Emerges	41
--	----

5. The New "Publius" 43
6. The Classical Analysis of Civic Virtue 48
7. The Modern Rivals of the Classics 72
8. The Eclipse of the Intellectual Virtues 74
9. The New Meaning of the Active Virtues 89
10. The New Basis of "Legitimate Government" 112
11. Liberty and Human Nature 117
12. The Unanswered Questions 124

PART THREE

The Lockean Conception of Human Nature	129
--	-----

13. The Unifying Thread of the Two Treatises 131

□ CONTENTS □

14. Property	141
15. The Problem of the Family	172
16. The Rational Basis of Morality	184
17. The Divine and Human Supports for Justice	198
18. The Rational Family	230
19. The "State of Nature"	244
20. The Rational Commonwealth	252
21. Rational Freedom and Human Dignity	262
Conclusion	276
Notes	281
Bibliography of Modern Works Cited	315
Index	329