

Contents

Preface	11
Acknowledgments	15
Introduction: Queer Desire and the Politics of Erotics	17
I Queer Desire in James's World	45
Erotics as Discourse	51
The Victorian Tradition	56
Spotting James's Beast	64
II Public Voices and Private Kisses in The Bostonians	71
"And A'n't I a Woman?": The American Experience	86
Verena and Olive's Boston Marriage	106
Between Women: The Question of Basil Ransom	119
III Out of the Closet and Onto the Streets of The Princess Casamassima	123
Anarchy Rising: Mounting Subversion in England	144
Erotics in Action!	157
Queer Desire and the Mediating Princess	173
IV Reclaiming the Body Erotic: Suicide as Masturbation	177
Searching for the Great Good Place	184
Verena Tarrant's Tearful Renunciation	189
Rethinking Hyacinth's Suicide	197
Conclusion: Oh, To Have Wings Like a Dove!	211
Bibliography	217
Index	229