2 Introduction	1
2 Part I Extensional Part—Whole Theory	5
1. Concepts and Principles of Extensional Mereology	9
1.1. Basic Concepts	9
1.2. An Example	17
1.3. The Leśniewskian Approach	18
1.4. Mereological Principles	25
1.5. Classical Extensional Mereology	37
1.6. The Question of Atomism	41
1.7. Summary	45
2. Survey of Extensional Mereology	46
2.1. Introduction	46
2.2. Presentation of Formal Systems	46
2.3. Calculi of Individuals without Sets	48
2.4. Calculi of Individuals with Sets	52
2.5. A Free Calculus of Individuals	55
2.6. Leśniewski's Mereology	60
2.7. Alternatives and Developments in Leśniewskian Mereology	70
2.8. Affinities	76
2.9. Non-Classical Extensional Mereologies	81
2.10. The Boundary with Topology	92
2.11. Appendix: The Notational Jungle	98
3. Problems	101
3.1. Historical Remarks	101
3.2. Criticisms	105
3.3. The Flux Argument	117
3.4. The Fourth Dimension	121
3.5. Applications of Extensional Mereology	127

4. Occurrents, Classes, and Masses	129
4.1. Occurrents	129
4.2. Activities and Performances	137
4.3. Plural Reference	141
4.4. Pluralities: Groups and Classes	144
4.5. Analogies Between Ontology and Mereology	148
4.6. Mass Reference and Masses	153
4.7. Outline of a Comprehensive Theory	162
4.8. Extending the Analogy?	166
4.9. Parts of Groups	168
4.10. Further Possible Applications of Extensional Mereology	169
Part II Mereology of Continuants	173
5. Temporary Parts and Intermittent Existence	175
5.1. Continuants	175
5.2. Temporary Parts	177
5.3. Chisholm's Entia Successiva	187
5.4. Intermittent Existence and Part- Replacement	195
5.5. Solution of the Difficulty	199
5.6. Corroboration Found in an English Idiom	204
5.7. Further Cases of Intermittence, and Conclusion	205
6. Superposition, Composition, and Matter	210
6.1. Superposition and Coincidence	210
6.2. Mixtures	218
6.3. Can Things of a Kind Be Superposed?	221
6.4. Composition	228
6.5. Constitution	237
6.6. The Problem of Matter	240
6.7. Coincidence Again: A Resolution	247
Part III Essence, Dependence, and Integrity	253
7. Essential Parts	255
7.1. Modality and Essence	255
7.2. Some Theses of Modal Mereology	262

7.3. Essential Parts for Continuants	267
7.4. Mereological Essentialism for Continuants	272
7.5. Essential Parts for Occurrents	281
7.6. Normal Parts	284
7.7. Appendix: Quantified S5	287
8. Ontological Dependence	290
8.1. Introduction	290
K 8.2. Dependence in General	293
8.3. Ontological Dependence	294
8.4. Independence, and More Dependence	301
8.5. Some Related Concepts: Substance, Accident, Disturbance	305
8.6. Non-modal Theories of Foundation and Dependence	310
8.7. Unconditional Existence	318
9. Integral Wholes	324
9.1. Sums and Complexes	324
9.2. Integrity in General	326
9.3. Mereo-topological Integrity	335
9.4. Ontological Integrity	339
9.5. Functional Integrity	342
9.6. Temporal Integrity and Persistence	349
9.7. Structure and Gestalt	354
L Concluding Remarks	361
Bibliography	365
