

Contents

---

Acknowledgments	viii
Introduction	1
1 Property Rights, Object Powers, and the Problem of Theft	10
1.1 Prologue: Ethical Words and Feelings	10
1.2 Property Rights and Property Defined	13
1.3 Property Rights Triggers or Elicitors	16
1.4 Scope of Property Rights	17
1.5 Property Rights versus Object Powers	18
1.6 Theft Defined and Illustrated	19
Notes	24
2 Production and Property Rights	27
2.1 Production and Property Feelings	27
2.2 Natural Objects and Productive Activity	32
2.3 Settlers and Indians in New England: A Case Study	35
2.4 Locke's Mixing Metaphor and Proviso	37
2.5 Social Contracts and Natural Objects	40
Notes	42

3	Exchange as Production	44
3.1	Nozick and Durkheim on Exchange	45
3.2	Productive Activity and Exchange	47
3.3	Exchange as Production: The Evidence of Language and Ritual	51
3.4	Exchange as Production: Ethnographic Evidence	54
3.5	Exchange as Production: The Legal Treatment of Promises	55
3.6	Antiquity of Exchange	56
	Notes	59
4	Alleged Limits on the Right to Property	61
4.1	Desert and Productive Activity	61
4.2	What Does Society Deserve?	66
4.3	Harms and Rights	67
4.4	Private Property versus Personal Property	68
4.5	Employment Discrimination	69
4.6	Illicit Wealth and Original Sin	71
4.7	Gifts and Bequests	75
	Notes	78
5	Producers versus Thieves	81
5.1	Right Makes Might	81
5.2	Ubiquity of the Property Institution	84
5.3	Employer as Thief	95
	Notes	100
6	Biology, Ethology, and Property	103
6.1	Evolution of Property Feelings	103
6.2	Property-like Behavior among Nonhuman Animals	106
6.3	Animal Kingdom and Stateless Society	110
6.4	Human Nature and Morality	112
6.5	Moral and Immoral Competition	115
	Notes	117

7	A Reconsideration of Natural Rights Theory	121
7.1	Producer's Right as Natural Right	121
7.2	Universalizability and Contractarianism	125
7.3	An Objection to Ethical Naturalism: The Open Question	127
	Notes	129
8	Alternative Economic Justice Rules	133
8.1	Types of Rules	133
8.2	The Congruence Rule	133
8.3	Utilitarian Justice	135
8.4	Wealth Maximization Justice	149
8.5	Fairness or Envy-free Justice	151
8.6	Maximin Justice	155
	Notes	160
9	Alternative Economic Justice Rules (Concluded): Blame-freeness and Catastrophic Allocations	161
	Notes	166
	Summary and Concluding Observations	168
	Appendix: Money and Happiness?: Towards "Eudaimonology"	176
	Notes	179
	References	182
	Index	207