
CONTENTS

List of Illustrations		vii
Acknowledgments		ix
INTRODUCTION	Asian American Literature and Asian American Graphic Novels ELEANOR TY	1
PART 1 RETELLING HISTORY
CHAPTER 1	Countervisualizing Barbed Wire, Guard Towers, and Latrines in George Takei and Harmony Becker's They Called Us Enemy MONICA CHIU	29
CHAPTER 2	Ethics of Storytelling: Teaching Thi Bui's The Best We Could Do STELLA OH AND ERIN KHUÊ NINH	49
PART 2 SUBVERTING STEREOTYPES
CHAPTER 3	Bitch Planet's Meiko Maki Is Down for Justice! JEANETTE ROAN	67
CHAPTER 4	Anachronistic Figures and Counternarratives: Comics as a Subversive Form in American Born Chinese and Johnny Hiro JIN LEE	83

CHAPTER 5	“A Storm of a Girl Silently Gathering Force”: Peminist Girlhoods in the Comics of Trinidad Escobar and Malaka Gharib MELINDA LUISA DE JESÚS	103
PART 3 SUPERHEROES AND RACE
CHAPTER 6	Questioning the “Look” of Normalcy and the Borders of South/Asian Americans: Ms. Marvel, Kamala Khan, and the Comic Superhero SHILPA DAVÉ	125
CHAPTER 7	(Un)Masking a Chinese American Superhero: Gene Luen Yang and Sonny Liew’s The Shadow Hero LAN DONG	141
PART 4 ECOLOGY, OTHERNESS, AND INCLUSIVITY
CHAPTER 8	Posthumanist Critique in Jillian Tamaki’s Boundless ELEANOR TY	159
CHAPTER 9	Drawing Disease and Disability: Ethical Optics and Space in Adrian Tomine’s Killing and Dying STELLA OH	178
	List of Contributors	193
	Index	197