

CONTENTS

	Page
ABBREVIATIONS	7
INTRODUCTION	9
I THE THEORY OF THE NOVEL IN THE GERMAN ROMANTIC MOVEMENT AND ITS SIGNIFICANCE FOR EICHENDORFF	13
1. 'Der Roman' and the theory of romantic poetry	13
2. 'Roman' and 'romantisch' in Friedrich Schlegel's later thought	24
3. The relevance of romantic theory to Eichendorff's conception of the 'Roman'	27
II THE STRUCTURAL FRAMEWORK AND FOUNDATIONS OF EICHENDORFF'S NOVELS	47
1. Book and chapter division	48
2. Plot and characters	56
III THE NARRATOR	77
1. The reader's guide	77
2. Narrative method in Eichendorff's novels	80
a) Implicit value-judgements	80
i) 'Loaded' vocabulary	80
ii) Juxtaposition	83
iii) Feigned assumption of other viewpoints	84
iv) Dialogue	86
b) Explicit evaluation: commentary and addresses to the reader	87
c) Inside views and point of view	93
d) 'Reflexion'	98
e) 'Chaos und Eros'	104

	Page
IV TIME	111
1. Eichendorff's conception of time and history in the context of romantic thought	111
2. The treatment of time in Eichendorff's novels	121
a) 'Chaos': vagueness and imprecision in temporal relations	121
b) 'Eros': underlying temporal patterns	123
c) Hubris: man-made temporal distortions	125
d) The interplay of time-dimensions	130
V INTERPOLATIONS	141
1. Poems and songs	143
2. Narrations	156
3. Dramatized dialogue	171
VI IMAGERY	175
1. General characteristics	175
2. Dominant images	186
3. Extended metaphors	202
CONCLUSION	209
NOTES	213
BIBLIOGRAPHY	239