

Contents

Notes	xii
PART 1 INFLATION IN FINANCIAL ACCOUNTING	1
1 Keeping intact the true value of invested capital	3
Universal spending power of the owners' investment	5
Application to other forms of business	6
A measurement of inflation	7
Need for simplicity	8
2 Profit measurement in annual accounts	10
More detailed approach	13
Inflation in consolidated accounts	16
Summary of proposals	19
3 Sources of funds on the balance sheet	20
The balance sheet—share capital and reserves	20
Long- and short-term liabilities	23
4 Fixed assets on the balance sheet	28
Assets in general	28
Special classes of fixed assets	32
5 Current assets on the balance sheet	38
Valuation of trading stock	41
Trade debtors	44
Cash as a current asset	46

Contents

6 Inflation and tax	48
Sole traders and partnerships	53
The tax equalization account	54
PART 2 MANAGEMENT ACCOUNTING	59
Introduction to Part 2	61
7 Costing for price fixing	62
Management accounting	62
The marginal costing approach	68
8 Basic elements in costing for price fixing	72
Overhead expenses	82
Depreciation of plant and machinery	83
9 Cost records as an aid to cost control	85
Issues of goods from the firm's stocks of raw materials	85
The value of work in progress	88
Valuation of stocks of finished goods	90
10 Monthly management accounts	91
PART 3 RETAINING LIQUIDITY	99
11 Forecasting the inflation funds	101
The forecast of sources and application of funds	105
The search for additional funds	109
12 Inflation's effect on international business	111
Problems and solutions applicable to imports, exports and local trade	113
International company inflation accounting	114
Charges in the rate of exchange	120
PART 4 APPLICATION TO PARTICULAR TYPES OF INDUSTRY, COMMERCE AND GOVERNMENT UNDERTAKINGS	123
13 Service and sales activities	125
Retail business	125
Effect on the demand for funds	129
Comparative effect on wholesalers	130
Service industries	131
Finance companies	133
14 Some individual industries	136
Nationalized industries	136
The coal industry	139

Contents

The gas industry	139
Post office	140
Agriculture	140
15 The construction industry	145
A plan for quotations	146
Appendix Accounting for changes in the purchasing power of money
Provisional standard accounting practice	153
Current purchasing power accounting and replacement cost	154
Index	159