Contents

Acknowledgments page ix

Introduction 1

1 Canonical prayer (ṣalāt) and supplication (du'ā'): Development and rules 10
- Ṣalāt: conditions and components 20
- Supplication: Du'ā' 29

2 Valid prayer and ideal prayer 44
- Intent (nīya) 44
- Reverence (khushū') and concentration (ḥuḍūr al-qalb) 56
- The cultivation of emotion 62
- Ethical transformation 70
- Conclusion 73

3 Interpretive models: What is ṣalāt, and what does it do? 75
- The model of the royal audience 84
- Prayer as communication 98
- Ṣalāt as an exercise in self-discipline 102
- Ṣalāt as a reflection of the cosmos 114
- Modern developments 121

4 The community at prayer: Congregational prayer, prayer leadership (imāma), and the boundaries of the religious community 128
- Friday prayers 130
- Leadership in prayer (imāma) 139
- Prayer behind a leader of another legal school 150
- Knowledge of prayer and its distribution in the community 155
- Failure to pray 162
- Modern developments 172

5 Women and prayer 177
Women's prayer leadership (imāma) and placement within the congregation 180
Women's mosque access 190
Knowledge and mastery of prayer 209

Conclusion 215

Bibliography 217
Index 235