

Contents

Preface	vii
Part I Principles and methods	I
1 Language and literature	3
2 The transmission of norms in fiction	29
3 The so-called 'realism' of the novel	85
Part II Some attempts at 'sociology through literature'	115
4 Fact in fiction: the use of fiction in the deduction of facts about society	117
5 Some speculations on the possible existence of a matriarchal society in Greece, based on the Oresteia of Aeschylus	135
6 Normative attitudes of spies in fiction	172
Bibliography	195
Index	203