
Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
Note on Translation	ix
Introduction	1
Part I The Problem of Orthodoxy	5
1 The Historical Setting	7
2 Preliminary Indications of a Problem in Vico's Work	22
Part II Language, Poetry and Myth	33
3 The Origins of Language, 'Natural Signification' and 'Onomathesia'	35
4 The 'Vera Narratio' as historical method	52
5 Linguistic Creativity and the Anomaly of the Third Epoch	61
Part III The Origins of Religion and the Growth of Institutions	75
6 The Creation of the Gods	77
7 The Primitive Mind, Heretical and Pagan Sources and the Question of Orthodoxy	86
8 Vico's Scheme of Development and Its Chronological Accommodation to Sacred History	97
Part IV The Problem of Law	113
9 The Reconciliation of Positive and Ideal Law	115
10 Law and the Catholic Tradition	130
11 Law and the Question of Grace and Free Will	143
12 Law and the Struggle for Rights	152

Part V The Development of Vico's Epistemology and the Science of History	161
13 The Early Vico and Concepts of Scientificity	163
14 'Vero', 'Certo' and the Nature of Historical Knowledge	183
15 Vico's Method in Practice	203
Part VI Vico's Naturalistic Historicism	214
16 The Problematicity of Vico's Notion of 'Providence'	215
17 'Ricorsi'	231
18 Vico's Philosophy of Nature	255
Conclusion	275
Bibliography	287
Index	295