

Contents

	Preface	xi
	A Note on References	xv
Chapter	1. The Composition of Science and the Modern World	1
	1. Basic Characteristics of the Later Philosophy	2
	2. The Four Layers of Science and the Modern World	5
	3. Endurance and Vibration	13
Chapter	2. The First Metaphysical Synthesis	22
	1. The Philosophy of Organism	22
	(1) Prehension	23
	(2) Organic Mechanism	31
	(3) Bodily Events	37
	2. Subjectivity and Consciousness in the Harvard Lectures, April, 1925	45
Chapter	3. The Emergence of Temporal Atomicity	51
	1. The Early Argument	54
	2. Critical Evaluation	62
Chapter	4. The Chapter on "Abstraction"	66
	1. Eternal Objects, Immanent and Transcendent	67
	2. Anticipations in the Harvard Lectures	70
	3. Metaphysical Criteria, Modes of Ingression, and Grades of Entry	72
	4. The Realm of Possibility	76
	5. Sherburne's Analysis	78
	6. Individual and Relational Essences	80
	7. Abstractive Hierarchies	82
	8. The Superject	86
	9. "Aesthetic Synthesis" and "Superject" in the Later Philosophy	88
	10. Incipient Panpsychism	89

	11. Note on Pythagoreanism	91
Chapter 5.	The Chapter on "God"	96
	1. Whitehead's Monism	96
	2. The Introduction of God	101
	3. The Nature of Religion	107
	4. The Triple Envisagement	109
	5. The Principle of Limitation	113
	6. The Three Forms of Limitation	116
	7. The Ontological Status of God	119
	8. Abstraction vs. Concretion	120
Chapter 6.	Religion in the Making	126
	1. The Metaphysics of Pluralism	127
	2. Religion and Dogma	133
	3. God as a Formative Element	137
	4. Religion in the Making and the Consequent Nature of God	140
	5. Note: Wieman's Development of Whitehead's God	147
Chapter 7.	The Metaphysics of 1926-27	151
	1. The Metaphysics of Fall, 1926	152
	2. The Metaphysical Principles Compared	162
	3. The March, 1927, Propositions	168
	(1) Consciousness	168
	(2) The Act of Experience	170
	(3) Propositions	173
Chapter 8.	The Giffords Draft	177
	1. The Early Contents of Process and Reality	180
	A. The Basic Theory of Extension (IV.2-3, 5)	180
	B. The Original Treatise on Perception (II.4.5-8 + II.8)	181
	C. The Giffords Draft	182
	1. "Speculative Philosophy" (I.1)	182
	2. "Fact and Form" (II.1)	183
	3. "The Extensive Continuum" (II.2)	183
	4. "Locke and Hume" (II.5)	183

5. "From Descartes to Kant" (II.6)	183
6. "The Order of Nature" with "Organisms and Environment" (II.3.1-4 + 4.1-4)	184
7. "Propositions" (II.9)	185
8. The Original Theory of Concre- scence (III.2.2 +)	185
9. "The Final Interpretation" (Part V, as originally drafted)	185
10. "Process" (II.10, considered as a half-chapter)	188
2. Some Distinctive Characteristics of the Gif- fords Draft	189
3. Possible Transitions within the Giffords Draft	198
Chapter 9. The Final Revisions	211
D. "The Theory of Feelings" (III.1, espe- cially 1.2)	213
E. The Second Theory of Concrecence (III.2.1-2,4 + 4.1-2)	217
F. The Remaining Categoreal Conditions (III.3.3-5, 5.8)	219
G. The Emergence of "Subjective Aim"	221
H. Intellectual Feelings (III.5)	224
I. The Consequent Nature of God	227
J. The Gifford Lectures and Subsequent Additions	229
K. Strains (II.4.9, IV. 4, 5.1)	233
L. Hybrid Prehension, Abolition of Reversion, and the Living Person (III.3.2, II.3.5-11)	235
M. "Coordinate Division" (IV.1)	238
Chapter 10. Recapitulation	245
1. Before the Composition of Process and Reality	245
2. The Composition of Process and Reality	251
Appendix 1. The Harvard Lectures for 1924-25. (Edited by Jennifer Hamlin von der Luft)	262
Appendix 2. "Time" (September, 1926)	303

Appendix 3. The Harvard Lectures for the Fall of 1926	309
Appendix 4. The Metaphysical Scheme of March, 1927	317
Appendix 5. The Metaphysical Principles of October, 1927	323
Appendix 6. The Prospectus for the Gifford Lectures	325
Index of Proper Names	329
General Index	333
Citation Index	343