

Contents

Preface	ix
Introduction	1

PART I PLURALISMS

1. Adjusting to the Real
John Hick and the Pluralistic Hypothesis	13
The Pluralistic Hypothesis	15
What's Not Pluralistic about the Pluralistic Hypothesis?	23
The Pluralistic Hypothesis: Meaning Less Than Meets the Eye?	35
2. Forms of Faith
Wilfred Cantwell Smith and the Historical Unity of Religion	44
Many Traditions, One Faith	45
The World's One Theology	51
There Are No Others: A Pluralistic Assumption?	53
3. Practicing Dialogue, Practicing Justice
Paul Knitter and the Liberation Theology of Religions	71
From Theocentrism to Soteriocentrism	73
From Dialogue to Justice	79
From Justice to Dialogue	83
Facing Religion as a Source of Evil	87
Justice Judging Religions: Religions Making Justice	91
4. No Other Way?
Pluralistic Theology as Apologetics	99
Exclusivism in the Mirror: Making Western Critiques

of Christianity the Norms for All Religion	101
Making the World Safe for Religion: The Apologetic Task of Pluralistic Theologies	110
The Religious Particularity of Pluralistic Theologies	117
A Job Description	124

PART II

SALVATIONS

5. Salvations
A More Pluralistic Hypothesis	129
Different Views of Difference	131
A Real Pluralism of Religious Ends	144
Some Objections Considered	152
6. Plenitude and Trinity
A Christian Perspective on Religious Diversity	158
Neither Heaven nor Hell	159
Plenitude and Trinity	163
Diversity within Religious Traditions	172
Religious Change: Cosmetic or Crucial?	177
7. Justice and Difference	185
Recognizing True Alternatives: The Root Source of Religious Evil?	185
Whose Justice? Religions as Source and Servants of Social Visions	195
8. Wisdom and Witness	211
The Limits of Pluralistic Theologies	212
Many True Religions . . . and Each the Only Way	219
Bibliography	231
Index	237