

CONTENTS

Introduction	1
--------------------	---

SECTION ONE

NEUROBIOLOGY AND SOURCES OF RELIGIOUS EXPERIENCE AND AUTHORITY

Reading the Body, Reading Scripture: The Implications of Neurobiology on the Study and Interpretation of Scripture	15
David Cave
De/Constructing Transcendence: The Emergence of Religious Bodies	37
James W. Haag and Whitney A. Bauman
Tongues of Men and Angels: Assessing the Neural Correlates of Glossolalia	57
John J. McGraw
Synchronized Ritual Behavior: Religion, Cognition and the Dynamics of Embodiment	81
Sebastian Schüller

SECTION TWO

CULTURE AND THE DE- AND RE-CONSTRUCTION OF THE BODY

Religion, Neuroscience and Emotion: Some Implications of Consumerism and Entertainment Culture	105
Rebecca Sachs Norris
Every Story is a Ghost: Chuck Palahniuk and the Reenchantment of Suffering	129
Eric Repphun

Attaining Transcendence: Transhumanism, the Body, and the Abrahamic Religions	155
Arthur Saniotis

SECTION THREE

(CROSS) CULTURAL APPROPRIATIONS OF THE BODY

Magnetism and Microwaves: Religion as Radiation	171
Deana L. Weibel
Scientific Approaches to the Body in the Spiritual-Physical Marketplace	199
Mira Karjalainen
Sleep Deprivation: Asceticism, Religious Experience and Neurological Quandaries	217
Núria M. Farré-i-Barril
Sikhism and Mental Illness: Negotiating Competing Cultures	235
Jagbir Jhutti-Johal
Bibliography	257
Index	273