

Contents

Foreword	ix
1. Religion in the Search for Maturity	15
The Search for God as Insight into Self
How to Interpret Religious Differences
Facing Growth of Religious Meaning
What makes an experience religious . . . Keeping words married to experiences . . . Expression of religious feeling in ritual, art, and myth . . . How threat to survival may affect religious belief . . . Religious experience and the development of moral insight . . . Religious experience and suffering . . . Religious experience as moral fellowship with God
Moral Maturity and Religious Belief
2. Religion as the Pursuit of Creativity by God and Man	44
Can a Good God Allow Evil?
What Makes Human Life Worth While?
We need to be loved . . . Must love not protect freedom? . . . Could God be good and not allow creativity?
Must Not a Good God Create and Support Creativity?
Creativity Demands Dependability

3. Religion as Creative Insecurity	69
What It Means to Be Human
Conditions of Creativity
The Effects of Positive Creativity
Creativity as Forgiving Love
The Re-creation of Confidence by God's Forgiving Love
Creativity Developed by Forgiving Love
4. Religion as Worth-While Suffering	95
The Warrant for Belief in a Loving Father
What Belief in God Involves
The world and man in religious perspective . . .
God as almighty Power . . . What perfect power is . . . The power to be worshiped
The Meaning of God's Perfection
Does God need nothing beyond himself? . . . Can love ever mean absolute power? . . . Does God foreknow all? . . . What is God's plan?
The God We Worship: Redemptive Sufferer
The best in human experience . . . The best in the cosmos . . . When forgiveness redeems
The God Who Bears the Cross	