

Contents

Preface to the English edition	page ix
The enigma of the mind: Introduction to a metaphor	1
1 Toward a physical science of the mental: Feigl and the (re-)construction of the 'mind-body problem'	30
2 The apogee of physicalism: The identity theory and materialism in the Australian school	61
3 The obscure relationship: Problems and debates surrounding the identity theory	105
4 Psychology as alchemy: The elimination of the mental in the 'disappearance theory'	118
5 The mind as function: The functionalist approach to the mind-body problem	130
6 The mind as property and as event: The 'reformist' neo-identityism of Kim and Davidson	153
7 The mind as language: The linguistic turn in the mind-body problem	176
8 Speaking in many different ways: The pluralization of descriptions and explanations in the MBP	195
9 The mind as a mode of subjective experience: An interpretive model of the features of the mental	206

Contents

10 The mind as 'subject' and as 'being-in-the-world': Toward a non-mentalistic interpretation of the mental	236
Appendix
The mental as intentional/'personal' emergence: The psycho-personological perspective of Joseph Margolis	267
Bibliography	283
Name index	317