

Contents

Acknowledgements IX

Introduction 1

- 1 Banks's Heroic Dramas 13
 - 1.1 The Collapse of Heroism in The Rival Kings and The Destruction of Troy 16
 - 1.2 Towards a New Model of Heroism in Cyrus the Great 27
- 2 The Unhappy Favourite and the Reinvention of Tudor England 32
 - 2.1 Elizabeth I in the Exclusion Crisis: Between Propaganda and Romance 34
 - 2.2 Banks and 'the Ladies': Politics, Morals, and the Re-gendering of Audience Response 42
 - 2.3 The History Play Updated and Re-gendered: Restoration Transformations 49
 - 2.4 The Unhappy Favourite 59
 - 2.5 Banks's Influence on the Rise of Shakespeare 72
- 3 From Female Saints to Political Martyrs: Vertue Betray'd, The Innocent Usurper, and the Transformative Power of the Last Dying Words 80
 - 3.1 Banks and the Politics of the Rye House Plot 85
 - 3.2 Anne Boleyn and Jane Grey, Protestant Icons 'Resurrected' in Exclusionist Propaganda 88
 - 3.3 Death as Communal Redemption in Dekker and Massinger's The Virgin Martyr 94
 - 3.4 The Resurgence of the Last Dying Words and the Politics of Emotion during the Exclusion Crisis 97
 - 3.5 Anne Boleyn and Lady Jane Grey, Precursors of the Augustan Nationalistic Heroine 106
 - 3.6 The Legacy of Banks's Political Martyr Plays: Nicholas Rowe's The Tragedy of the Lady Jane Grey and the Neoclassical Unflappable Heroine 118

- 4 Women Take Centre Stage: Lesbian Desire in The Island Queens 124
- 4.1 Coterie Writing and Same-Sex Female Desire 127
 - 4.2 The Language of Poetic Friendship and Female Intellectual, Sexual and Political Expression 134
 - 4.3 Women Take Centre Stage: The Island Queens 139
 - 4.4 The Sources of The Island Queens and the Political Implications of Presenting Mary Queen of Scots on Stage 141
 - 4.5 Elizabeth and Mary, Queens Without a King 146
 - 4.6 The Albion Queens 159
 - 4.7 A Change of Paradigm: Redefining Femininity at the Turn of the Century 162

5 Conclusion: The Legacy of She-Tragedy 166

Bibliography 173

Index 189