INTRODUCTION TO THE SERIES	V
PREFACE	IX
SCHEDULE OF THE BOOK	XII
TABLE OF CONTENTS	XIII
LIST OF FIGURES	XV

CHAPTER 1. THE INDIVIDUAL WELFARE FUNCTION, A PRELIMINARY APPROACH

1. Introduction	1
2. The Nature of Welfare	3
3. The Evaluation of a Welfare Position	5
4. Plan of this Book.	11

CHAPTER 2. SERVICE SPACE AND WELFARE MEASURE

1. Introduction	14
2. The One-commodity World	14
3. The n -commodity World.	18
4. Switching from one Relevant Set to Another	21
5. Complementarity and Substitution	27
6. Some Parameters of Welfare Distributions	34
Appendix: On the Natural Unit	39

CHAPTER 3. SERVICE SPACES OF LARGE DIMENSION AND THE WAYS TO HANDLE THEM

1. Introduction	41
2. Welfare Measures on Infinite-dimensional Spaces	42
3. Homogeneous Commodities	46
4. Perception of a Non-homogeneous Commodity Group	52
5. Representation of the Non-homogeneous Commodity Group by a Fictitious Homogeneous Good	66
6. The Partial Welfare Distribution of the Representative Good	74

7. Generalization to Several Non-homogeneous Groups Together	84
8. Retrospect	91
Appendix: The Central Limit Theorem	94
CHAPTER 4. THE THEORY OF CONSUMER BEHAVIOR
1. Introduction	97
2. The Classical Problem.	97
3. A Synthesis Between Both Theories	107
4. The Non-homogeneous Group Model Numerically Investigated. . . .	119
5. Conclusion	130
Appendix A: Computational Aspects of the Optimization Procedure	131
Appendix B: Mathematical Aspects of the Optimization Procedure	133
CHAPTER 5. WELFARE EVALUATION OVER TIME IN A RANDOM WORLD
1. Introduction	139
2. The Introduction of Time	139
3. The n -dimensional Generalization.	152
4. Evaluation of Budgets under Uncertainty	156
5. The Non-homogeneous Commodity Group in the PWT-setting	164
6. Conclusion	171
CHAPTER 6. CONSUMER BEHAVIOR IN A DYNAMIC WORLD
1. Introduction	173
2. A Preliminary Exploration.	173
3. The Intertemporal Process	176
4. Numerical Experiments with a Lognormal Model	182
5. The Actual Monthly Spending Process	195
6. Some Additional Observations on the Influence of the Relevance Process	205
7. Conclusion	209
SUMMARY	211
APPENDIX: SOME CONCEPTS OF MEASURE THEORY	218
BIBLIOGRAPHY	228
