

CONTENTS

Karl Brunner and Allan H. Meltzer: Optimal Policies, Control Theory and Technology Exports . . . . .	1
Edward C. Prescott: Should Control Theory Be Used for Economic Stabilization? . . . . .	13
J.H. Kalchbrenner and P.A. Tinsley with J. Berry and B. Garrett: On Filtering Auxiliary Information in Short-run Monetary Policy . . . . .	39
Franco Modigliani: Should Control Theory Be Used for Economic Stabilization?: A Comment . . . . .	85
John B. Taylor: Control Theory and Economic Stabilization: A Comment on the Kalchbrenner and Tinsley and Prescott Papers . . . . .	93
John Bryant: Should Control Theory Be Used for Economic Stabilization?: A Comment . . . . .	99
Edward C. Prescott: Should Control Theory Be Used for Economic Stabilization?: A Rejoinder . . . . .	101
James L. Pierce: Improving the Monetary Aggregates: An Evaluation of the Report of the Advisory Committee on Monetary Statistics . . . . .	103
Jerry L. Jordan: A Comment on the Pierce Paper . . . . .	125

William G. Dewald:
FINE Principles and Prospects for Financial Institutions Reform. . . . .	131
Ira Kaminow:
FINE Principles and Prospects for Financial Institutions Reform: A Comment. . . . .	153
Eitan Berglas and Ronald W. Jones:
The Export of Technology . . . . .	159
Stephen P. Magee:
Application of the Dynamic Limit Pricing Model to the Price of Technology and International Technology Transfer. . . . .	203
Roy J. Ruffin:
A Comment on the Berglas and Jones and Magee Papers. . . . .	225
Ronald Findlay:
A Comment on the Berglas and Jones and Magee Papers. . . . .	235