

Contents

1. Widening the Theological Conversation in Today's Pluralistic Context, 3
 - Theological Conversations across Religious Boundaries*, 3
 - The Themes and Methods behind This Book*, 12
 - Hindu God, Christian God in the Context of Christian Theology*, 20
2. Arguing the Existence of God: From the World to Its Maker, 29
 - Richard Swinburne's Contemporary Christian Argument for God's Existence*, 30
 - The Traditional Indian Rational Inquiry into the Existence of God*, 35
 - Arguing the Existence of God as an Interreligious Theological Project*, 58
3. Debating God's Identity, 62
 - Jesus Christ, the Form of Revelation: An Explanation of Christian Uniqueness According to Hans Urs von Balthasar*, 64
 - Hindu Apologetics: Identifying the True God in a Constructed Monotheistic Context*, 68
 - Naming God in an Interreligious Theological Context*, 88

4. Making Sense of Divine Embodiment, 94
Devotion to the Incarnate God:
Karl Rahner on the Sacred Heart, 96
Hindu Theologies of God's Body, 101
God's Body: Arguing the Obvious—and the Inarguable, 123
 5. How Revelation Matters in the Assessment of Religions, 129
Karl Barth: Revelation and the Construction of Religions, 131
Reasoning about Religions in Light of Revelation in the Hindu Context, 138
Revelation as Limit and Bridge in Interreligious Theology, 157
 6. Faithful and Reasonable Theology in a Pluralistic World, 163
Reviewing the Practice of Theology Based on Our Hindu and Christian Examples, 163
Knowing God More Fully, 177
Beyond This Book, 181
- A Hindu Theologian's Response: A Prolegomenon to
"Christian God, Hindu God" by Parimal G. Patil, 185
Asymmetrical Demands, 186
"Christian God, Hindu God," 190
- Appendix I: List of Theologians, 197
- Appendix II: Note on the Translations and Pronunciation, 199
- Bibliography, 201
- Index, 207