Part I: Basics

1	Developmental Anatomy of the Ductus Arteriosus	2
	Regina Bökenkamp
	Introduction	2
	Embryogenesis	2
	Ductal Maturation	2
	Patent Ductus Arteriosus in Premature Infants	4
	Persistent Ductus Arteriosus (PDA)	4
	Summary	4
	References	4
2	Regulation of Smooth Muscle Contraction	6
	Ingo Morano
	References	10
3	Prostaglandin Metabolism and Effects of Inhibitors	12
	Karsten Schrör
	References	14
4	Postnatal Circulatory Adaptation	15
	Michael Hofbeck
	References	18
5	Epidemiology of Persisting Ductus in Preterm Infants	19
	Christiane Pees, Michael Obladen
	Congenital Anomaly or Prolonged Adaptation?	19
	Clinical Relevance	20
	Frequency Depends on Immaturity and Echocardiography	20
	Individual Variability	20
	Conclusions	23
	References	23

Part II: Clinical Features

6	Persisting Ductus Arteriosus and Respiratory Problems	26
	Walter Kachel
	Association with Pulmonary Immaturity / Surfactant Deficiency	26
	Association with Pulmonary Infection / Inflammatory Response	26
	X-Ray Opacities	27
	PDA, Lung Water, and Pulmonary Hemorrhage	27
	Lung Mechanics	28
	Surfactant Substitution	28
	Chronic Lung Disease	28
	Conclusions	29
	References	29
7	Influence on Mesenteric Perfusion and Necrotizing Enterocolitis	31
	Josef Sonntag
	Introduction	31
	Mesenteric Perfusion	31
	Patent Ductus Arteriosus and Mesenteric Perfusion	31
	Necrotizing Enterocolitis	31
	Patent Ductus Arteriosus and Necrotizing Enterocolitis	32
	Indomethacin Intervention	33
	Ibuprofen	33
	Indomethacin Versus Ibuprofen	33
	Surgical Ligation	34
	Conclusions	34
	References	34
8	Persisting Ductus Arteriosus and Intraventricular Hemorrhage	35
	Rolf F. Maier
	Cerebral Perfusion	35
	PDA, Lung Maturity, and IVH	35
	Pharmacological Interventions	36
	Conclusions	37
	References	37

Part III: Diagnostics

9 Echocardiographic Assessment	40
Helmut Singer
References	44
10 Cerebral Doppler Sonographic Measurements	45
Karl-Heinz Deeg, Burkhard Trusen
Intracranial Arteries	45
Doppler Parameters	45
PDA-Specific Flow Patterns	46
Conclusions	48
References	49

Part IV: Interventions

11 Therapeutic Options	52
Axel von der Wense
Prevention of PDA	52
Prophylactic Administration of Cyclooxygenase Inhibitors	53
Indomethacin	54
Ibuprofen	54
Hamburg Ibuprofen Study	54
Current Hamburg Concept of PDA Treatment ..	56
References	56
12 Surgical Closure	57
Michael Hübler
History	57
Transport to the Operating Room	57
Preparation for Operation in the NICU	58
Perioperative Management	58
Surgical Management	58
Postoperative Management	60
Complications	60
Outcome and Complications in our Center	63
Minimally Invasive Approaches	63
References	64

13 Comparison of Indomethacin and Ibuprofen	65
Bart van Overmeire
Properties of Ibuprofen	65
Therapy and Prophylaxis of Patent Ductus Arteriosus	65
Effects on Regional Circulation	67
Pharmacokinetics	67
Conclusions	67
References	68
 14 Indomethacin Effects and Side Effects	 69
Berndt Urlesberger
Effects	69
Management of Symptomatic PDA	69
Management of Asymptomatic PDA	69
Prophylactic Indomethacin	70
Conclusions Regarding Effects	70
Side Effects	70
Impairment of Renal Function	70
Impairment of Cerebral Perfusion	70
Abdominal Side Effects	71
Interference With Blood Glucose	71
Platelet Dysfunction	72
Contraindications	72
Conclusions	72
References	72
 15 Complications of Cyclooxygenase Inhibition in Preterm Infants	 74
Véronique Gournay
Pharmacology	74
Cerebral Effects of COX Inhibitors	75
Pulmonary Effects of COX Inhibitors	75
Renal Effects of COX Inhibitors	78
Intestinal Effects of COX Inhibitors	78
Effect of Ibuprofen on Bilirubin-Albumin Binding	81
Conclusions	82
References	82

16	Ibuprofen in Infants below 28 Gestational Weeks	84
	Petra Koehne
	The Timing of PDA Intervention	84
	Parameters Characterizing the Hemo-
	Dynamic Significance of a PDA	85
	Early Ibuprofen for Symptomatic PDA in
	Infants under 28 Weeks Gestational Age	85
	Conclusion	90
