

Contents

List of Tables and Figures	vii
Preface	x
Acknowledgements	xii
List of Abbreviations	xiii
Notes on the Contributors	xiv
 1 Overview: Inequality and Transformation of Social Structures Vladimir Mikhalev	 1
 Part I Market Reforms, Income Distribution and Social Stratification
 2 Transition and Social Structures: General Determinants of Change Timo Piirainen	 21
 3 The Impact of Labour Markets: Social Mobility, Segmentation and Reranking Vladimir Gimpelson	 46
 4 Winners of the Reforms: The New Economic and Political Elite Iván Szelényi and Christy Glass	 75
 5 Middle Classes in the Making in Central and Eastern Europe György Lengyel and Péter Róbert	 99
 6 Lower Classes, Poverty and the Poor Alastair McAuley	 133

Part II Structural Comparison of Inequality and Social Structures among Archetypal Country Case Studies

7	Russia	153
	Nodari Simonia
8	Poland	174
	Jarosław Górniak
9	Czech Republic	211
	Jiří Večerník
10	Uzbekistan	242
	Richard Pomfret
11	Kyrgyzstan	259
	Vladimir Mikhalev and Georges Heinrich
	Index	285

List of Tables and Figures

Tables

3.1	Decomposition of the decline in employment rates, 1991–96	52
3.2	Labour market flows in transition countries, % of stock	53
3.3	Flows by age, sex, education and occupation, Russia, 1995–96	54
3.4	Labour market data across selected countries, national LFS	63
4.1–4.5	Occupational destinations in 1993 of people who were in economic and political nomenklatura positions in 1988 in Bulgaria, in the Czech Republic, in Hungary, in Poland and in Russia	82
4.6–4.10	Occupational origins in 1988 of members of the new economic and political elites in 1993 in Bulgaria, in the Czech Republic, in Hungary, in Poland and in Russia	85
4.11	Effects of parameters for a model of the determinants of elite membership, 1993	85
5.1	Class distribution in six post-socialist countries, 1988 and 1993	108
5.2	Increase of the entrepreneurial and service classes in six post-socialist countries between 1988 and 1993	109
5.3	Proportion of tertiary-educated in the middle class and lower class in six post-socialist countries, 1988 and 1993	111
5.4	Proportion of those working in the service sector in the middle class and lower class in six post-socialist countries, 1988 and 1993	112
5.5	Proportion of women in the entrepreneurial and service classes in six post-socialist countries, 1988 and 1993	114
5.6	Proportion of those working in the service sector in the entrepreneurial and service classes in six post-socialist countries, 1988 and 1993	116
5.7	Earnings determination: effects of class on the logarithm of personal earnings, 1993. Regression analysis, standardized beta estimates	118

5.8	Ratio of the highest/lowest deciles in personal income and family income per capita, 1993	124
5.9	Ratio of highest/lowest deciles in personal income and family income per capita, 1996	126
7.1	Urbanization dynamics of Russia – USSR	155
7.2	Number of privatized enterprises by original forms of property	158
7.3	Farmers' households	163
7.4	Agricultural production by the type of produce, 1997	164
7.5	Youth crime indicators	167
7.6	Distribution of household income by quintile groups	168
7.7	Subsistence-level indicators	169
7.8	Minimal subsistence level by regions, 1997	170
7.9	Life expectancy at birth and mortality indicators	171
8.1	Changes in basic economic indicators in Poland	180
8.2	Employment in Poland by sector	181
8.3	Relation of average monthly wages in the upper and lower decile shares	182
8.4	Income differentiation of households: Gini coefficients, 1987–97	184
8.5	Level of education of fathers of university graduates, by age group	186
8.6	Percentage of males who changed their socioeconomic status in the years 1948–52, 1952–63, 1983–88 and 1988–93	187
8.7	Occupation in 1988 as a source of elite segments in Poland in 1998	190
8.8	Household income by education of the head of the household	193
8.9	The threat of poverty in Poland, 1997	196
8.10	Household income differences between social classes in Poland	199
8.11	Income differences among basic social classes	200
A8.12	Outflow from the 1988 nomenklatura categories into the 1993 destination in Poland	205
A8.13	Earnings of the employees in the Polish economy in 1996, by sector and gender	206
A8.14	Households furnished with selected durable goods, 1997	207
A8.15	Social class of household head by education	208
9.1	Households and household incomes by 'social group'	213
9.2	Earnings and household incomes	214
9.3	Characteristics of distribution of household income	219
9.4	Distribution of household income by decile groups and real growth	220

9.5	Analysis of variance of (ln) household income	221
9.6	Relative taxes and social benefits according to decile groups	222
9.7	Opinions about factors of life success	224
9.8	Characteristics of the economic elite (directors) by sector of ownership	225
9.9	Branch structure of earnings in two historical periods	227
9.10	Economically active population and earnings by education	228
9.11	Poor households and persons by family status	229
9.12	Intragenerational class mobility of persons of working age	231
9.13	Subjective mobility of economically active persons	232
9.14	Objective status consistency: results of exploratory factor analysis methods – principal components analysis, oblimin rotation and pattern matrices	233
9.15	Self-ranking by social position and income	234
9.16	Correlation of self-ranking by social position and income in 1999 and their change in 1989–99 with characteristics of respondents	235
11.1	Kyrgyzstan: human development indicators	260
11.2	Kyrgyzstan: economic indicators	263
11.3	Kyrgyzstan: employment by sector	267
11.4	Kyrgyzstan: average wages by economic sector	269
11.5	Distribution of household expenditures, 1993–97	272
11.6	Education of household head and expenditures, 1993–97	275
11.7	Economic status of household head and expenditures, 1997	281

Figures

3.1	Changes in employment	57
3.2	Unemployment in selected countries, % of labour force	59
8.1	Income differences among social classes in Poland	198
8.2	Income differences among social classes controlled by education	201
9.1	Real incomes, 1990–97	220
9.2	Those who consider themselves a poor family	230